EAST SIDE SEEKS BRANCH POSTAL DEPARTMENT

Postmaster Jackson Agrees to Work in Conjunction With Committee

The new hotel, a branch postoffice, transportation problems and the high school situation were discussed yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, by the members of the East Glendale Advancement Association.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson was a guest of the occasion. He quoted portions of a letter just received from John H. Bartlette, first assistant postmaster general, requesting his opinion in regard to the suggested postal station in the vicinity of Glendale avenue and Broadway.

Postmaster Jackson said that personally he was in favor of a classified sub-station in charge of a full time superintendent. He asked for information in regard to the desires of the association along this line and intimated that financial assistance might be helpful. He asked that the subject be given immediate attention and asserted that he "would not let any grass grow under his feet" in endeavoring to obtain a branch postoffice which would be a credit to both the postoffice department and the fastest growing city in America.

Want Branch Office

A contract substation should not be encouraged if there is any possible way of obtaining a branch postoffice on the east side is the opinion of Dr. Henry R. Harrower. He asserted, however, that a substation would not be able to handle all of the mail from the Harrower laboratory. He called attention to the fact that the vicinity around the proposed branch originated between $5000 and $6000 worth of postal business a month which he said ought to be enough to cause the department to establish a branch.

"Whatever is done in regard to this postoffice must be done in a temporary way," declared Dr. Harrower, "because this end of town is in a transition stage."

The consensus of opinion seemed to be that the hotel would be the logical place in which to locate the new branch.

In Committee's Hands

The subject was referred to the postoffice committee. This con-

Equal Rights for Girls at Playgrounds

Well, girls, this is an age of equal rights—you have just as much right to shriek and vamp as the boys.

Pick up your jacks, pack up your dolls, roll up your jumping rope, come on over to the Intermediate playground and let's play.

Miss Gladys Sharp, member of the Intermediate faculty, extends a special invitation to you to make use of the girls' half of the Intermediate playground every afternoon except Sunday.

Volleyball and indoor baseball teams are to be organized and Eagle Rock girls have promised to see that you get plenty of exercise.

Miss Sharp is a specialist in playground activities. Last term she coached a number of girls' teams at the Intermediate school.

Religious Pageant At Pacific Methodist

A program of wide interest is to be given Sunday evening at the Pacific avenue Methodist church, where fifteen young people of the Epworth League of San Pedro will present the religious pageant, "The Challenge of the Cross." It will be given at 7:30 o'clock and the public is invited to attend.

The pageant is something very new and has met with great success in San Pedro and other places it has been given.

In addition to the pageant there will be music by a mixed quartet and a male quartet. There will be no admission.

City Officials to Offer Barbecue at Dedication of Park

Enter Mayor Spencer Robinson as chief chef, members of the city council as garcons and City Manager W. H. Reeves as chief bottle washer.

This may not be the exact line-up, but anyhow, an announcement comes from the city hall this morning that the city administration will have charge of the barbecue August 16 in connection with the picnic of the Glendale Credit Men's Association.

The new municipal park in Verdugo canyon at this time will be officially inspected by the merchants of Glendale.

Secretary Frank H. Pilling says the Credit Association is going to have some time.

He is now on the lookout for a good healthy bull.

Lucky Thirteen Is Produced; Anyone Else Offer Proof?

D. Ripley Jackson, Glendale's postmaster, isn't going to have a corner on "lucky thirteen," say Mr. and Mrs. Grant Stewart of 549 Oak street, who yesterday, Thursday, July 13, celebrated the anniversary of their wedding, which took place twelve years ago on July 13.

Mr. Stewart claims that he has it all over Mr. Jackson because he was born on the thirteenth of June, while Mr. Jackson comes back with the retort courteous that Mrs. Jackson upheld the family hoodoo by being born on the thirteenth day of June.

So that rather evens things up because neither one can beat the other with the yarn about celebrating birthdays Friday, June 13, 1913.

"Anyway," says Mr. Jackson, "we've got them all skinned when it comes to thirteen!"

TWIN STRIKES ARE CAUSE OF ALARM AT CAPITAL

President Harding and His Cabinet Seek Solution to Labor Problem

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Beset from every direction with the gravest industrial situation that has confronted this nation in years, President Harding met again with his cabinet today to seek a course of administration action that will at once afford the public protection to which the government is pledged and which at the same time will not add fuel to an already blazing fire.

There was an unmistakable air of pessimism and alarm in Washington as the cabinet met at the White House. From being merely an "annoying industrial dispute," the twin coal and rail strikes have suddenly become a national crisis.

Federal troops are being held in readiness for instant duty not only in Texas, but in other parts of the country. And the strike of stationary firemen and oilers, ordered from Chicago today to be effective on Monday, was regarded as labor's answer to the threats which the troop orders implied.

Situation Desperate

Not only in the executive branch of the government was serious alarm beginning to manifest itself today, but also in the legislative as well. Senators who have been prominent in settling similar situations in the past declined to talk. The time for talking, they said, was past. One senator said:

"The situation is desperate. It seems the whole damn country is sitting on a powder keg and a match may be lighted any minute."

It was a fair reflection of the sentiment of the senate of a growing number of officials in the executive branch.

President Harding has not yet answered the telegram sent him yesterday by Federated Shop Craft leaders, in which they laid the onus for the railroad strike on the railroads themselves, ignored the railroad board, except to charge it was unfair, and gave

Request Names Be Taken From Petition

Opening of West Broadway at Central in order that the jog at that corner might be removed will be protested out, it was indicated at the meeting of the city council last night, when a large number of requests were filed by persons asking that their names be taken from the petition calling for the improvement.

The improvement petition, as filed, contained about fifty-seven per cent of the property owners in the district. With the removal of names as requested, the petition will, it was announced last night, contain but thirty-nine per cent of the interested property owners. Hence, city officials predicted that the improvement plan will not be carried out.

However, the council is changing the assessment district and proceeding with the legal steps for the improvement pending the presentation of a majority petition either way.

It was announced this morning that work on the brick building at Broadway and Central, halted by the proposed improvement, will be resumed.

JEALOUS WOMAN SLAYS ANOTHER WITH HAMMER

Confesses to Husband, He Tells Police, She Is Now Held for Inquiry

TUCSON, Ariz., July 14. — A woman giving the name of Clara McGuire was being held here today by the police on the request of Los Angeles authorities as the accused slayer of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, said to have been slain late Wednesday afternoon on a lonely road near Los Angeles. The woman held under suspicion was taken from a Southern Pacific train late last night.

In the arrested woman's possession was a pasteboard box, on the bottom of which was written "Clara Phillips," the name supplied by Los Angeles officers to the local authorities to be used in making the arrest.

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Jealousy and the eternal triangle—the love of a woman who believed she had been robbed of her husband by another.

That was the cause given today by the police and sheriff's office for the brutal "hammer murder" late Wednesday afternoon in Montecito Road of pretty Albert Meadows, bank employe, by Mrs. Clara Phillips, who believed Mrs. Meadows had stolen the love of her husband. Also such was the story revealed today by A. L. Phillips, husband of the alleged slayer who was arrested in Tucson, Ariz., on request of local officers.

The unvarnished facts of the triangle, as told by Phillips to Sheriff W. I. Traeger, are that his wife believed idle neighborhood gossip that he and Mrs. Meadows, whose husband was killed last January, were intimate. This Phillips denies.

Confesses to Husband

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Phillips, after purchasing the hammer which it is alleged was later used to slay her victim, accidentally met Mrs. Meadows as she drove her Ford coupe out of a downtown parking station, so Phillips says his wife told him later. Mrs. Phillips asked Mrs. Meadows to take her out to North Broadway, as she had some people there she wanted to see.

After driving some time the pair were in the lonely road and Mrs. Phillips suggested they get out and walk, that she wanted to talk with Mrs. Meadows.

Once out of the machine, it is alleged, Mrs. Phillips, still carry-

Mrs. L. T. Rowley Is Made Vice President

Mrs. L. T. Rowley, active P.-T. A. member, was elected vice-president of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teachers' organizations, at the executive committee meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eustace Moore, president of the federation.

She succeeds Mrs. E. S. McKee, who tendered her resignation because of recent illness and other duties.

After the election of Mrs. Rowley, Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, addressed the gathering on the proposed bonds to improve the streets near the city schools, and on the junior high school project.

His discussion of the bond issue resulted in the appointment of a committee composed of Miss Eva Daniels, chairman, and president of all Parent-Teacher organizations in the city, to formulate publicity plans for furthering the cause of the bonds.

Mrs. Moore expressed herself as greatly gratified over the splendid attendance in view of the absence of so many for summer outings.

Don Webb Speaker Before Kiwanis Club

Don Webb, delegate to the international convention at Toronto, was the principal speaker in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, at noon today at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Kiwanis club.

The meeting was largely devoted to business and a number of matters of interest to the organization were brought up.

Several piano selections were played by Herb Henning of 203 East Elk street, professional pianist and official accompanist for the club.

The attendance prize was offered by Herman Nelson, manager of the Glendale Branch of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank.

The silent boosts were offered by H. C. Pennock. They proved to be overgrown lead pencils. President Lyman P. Clark remarked that they could be used either as billy-clubs, totem poles or wireless masts. Each pencil bears the name of The Glendale Evening News.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Two hundred dollars still remains unpledged towards the budget of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church, according to Rev. Harley G. Preston. Harold Adams of 153 South Pacific avenue is the treasurer of the congregation.

3-Hour Parking Will Prevail, Is Verdict of Council

Three-hour parking law will prevail in Glendale. The city council, in conference with W. H. Reeves, city manager, so decided, it was announced at the council meeting last night.

The amended ordinance will prohibit parking longer than three hours on Brand from California to Colorado and on Broadway from Central to Everett.

The remainder of the city is "open" territory, the council decided.

Returned Missionary Speaker to Women

Miss Marjorie Judson, who is in the United States on furlough from evangelistic work in China, was special guest and speaker yesterday afternoon at the missionary meeting of women at the Baptist church.

It was an all-day meeting of the church women and began in the morning with White Cross sewing. During the sewing hour it was announced that during the past month the Baptist women sent $200 in clothing and other materials to the Baptist City Center in Los Angeles.

Luncheon was served at noon and the afternoon given over to a program on China.

The first number of the program was a review of fashions of foreign women and a comparison of their fads with those of American women, presented by Mrs. Boynton.

This was followed by a sketch, "Little Missionaries," given by Mrs. Sudlow and little Virginia Adams and Pauline Hatch. There were four other little girls taking part in the afternoon's program, Betty Van Wermer, Barbara Stamps, Frances Harris and Sallie Gray, who dressed in Chinese fashion, gave a series of illustrated oriental nursery rhymes.

Preceding Miss Judson's talk there was a vocal number by Mrs. Paul Elliott.

Ushers, pianist and speakers were all dressed in Chinese costumes.

Policeman Conner Slightly Injured

Officer B. H. Conner was slightly injured about 1:30 o'clock this morning while in the performance of his duties as a member of the Glendale police department.

While bicycling south on Central avenue just past Colorado street, he was hit by an automobile which approached from behind. He was hurled to the ground but was not seriously injured.

The machine failed to stop and Mr. Conner commandeered the next automobile which came along. They overtook the Scripps-Booth at Los Feliz road and R. C. Buffman of 1630 Anson avenue, Los Angeles, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and violating the California motor vehicle act in failing to stop after an accident. As he was unable to deposit the $50 bail required his car is being retained at the city hall until the conclusion of the trial this afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Cruise Of Chicago Visitors

House guests at the F. B. Reichenbach home at 1514 Gardena avenue, are Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Cruise of Chicago, Ill. Dr. Cruise came west to attend the dental convention next week in Los Angeles and he and Mrs. Cruise are enjoying visits with relatives and old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Reichenbach are planning to entertain their guests this coming week-end with a motor trip to Ventura. The Cruises will spend next week with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bartlett of Vista del Mar, Hollywood. Mrs. Bartlett and Mrs. Cruise are cousins.

Mrs. Cruise was complimented Tuesday with a luncheon given by Mrs. Cora Harper of 2659 Normandie avenue, Los Angeles. Miss Esther Griffiths and Mrs. Gay Ramsey were also honored guests.

Patterson Avenue Changes Submitted

Bert P. Woodward attorney appeared for protestants at the city council meeting last night when certain portions of the proposed improvement of Patterson avenue were the basis for protests. As a result, the improvement proceedings will be changed, it is announced, to comply with the wishes of the protestants. The council will meet next Wednesday night, instead of Thursday and others wishing changes in the proposed improvements are asked by the council to appear then.

EXPENSIVE SMOKING

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Is a man justified in spending half as much for tobacco as he does for the family provisions? This question came before Judge McLucas in the divorce suit brought by Ella A. Bennett against Daniel J. Bennett.

"His smoking expenses were more than half our food bills," the plaintiff stated.

ROTARY CLUB HAS DISCUSSION ON SCHOOL PLANS

Annexation of Eagle Rock to Glendale Is Possible, Speakers Indicate

If consolidation of the Union High and city school districts is to be talked at this time, in connection with making use of the old high school plant as a junior high, Eagle Rock must be brought into the scheme and possibly into the city of Glendale.

That was the final "if" expressed yesterday at a meeting of the Rotary club where school heads talked about various projects, not new in themselves, but brought to a crux by the fact that the $600,000 bond issue for a new high school must be increased 50 per cent or the present plant sold—"if a school to accommodate 3,000 is built."

George U. Moyse, principal of the high school, spoke, supplementing remarks in the Rotoservice bulletin; T. D. Watson, president of the union district board, supplemented remarks he already has printed; Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, approved the plan of one district with junior high schools and one central senior high as something he has been advocating ever since returning from the National Educational Association convention one year ago.

In Three Groups

Mr. White told of the necessity for dividing the school work into three groups prior to college or university training. The children from 6 to 12 are amenable to discipline in the grades, he pointed out. From 12 to 15 they are going through an early adolescent period which makes them a decided problem and from 15 to 18 they are in the later stage which has an entirely different psychology.

Following is Mr. Moyse's statement on the subject:

"The very heavy increase in attendance in our schools brings urgent problems before us that are hard to meet. The increase in the average attendance in the Glendale City Elementary schools for the past year is about 25 per cent. The increase in attendance in the Union High school is 42 per cent. These figures are given to show how great the problem is. Glendale city had a bond issue last year, is now building several new buildings, but these will be

Harry Girard's Many Friends Appreciative

Mayor Spencer Robinson, who is in charge of the arrangements for the "testimonial of appreciation" for Harry Girard, who is lying helpless in a Los Angeles hospital as the result of a serious accident, announces that a wonderful response is being demonstrated by friends throughout the county. The "testimonial," which is to be in the nature of an all-star concert of classical selections, will take place on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Glendale theatre, which has been donated for the occasion by William A. Howe, lessee and manager.

The entire proceeds will go toward defraying the hospital expenses of the popular "Harry," as he is known by thousands of intimate friends throughout Southern California. The artists who will take part in the program are known to be the foremost in the United States, the fame of some of them even having extended to Europe. All of them have kindly donated their services for the "testimonial."

Mayor Robinson received a report this morning, from F. H Huesman of 728 East Windsor road, who he had delegated to outline the plans of Sunday's entertainment before the Los Angeles council of the Knight of Columbus, announcing that the organization had paid $100 for one ticket and that the members had also pledged themselves to dispose of 200 tickets. Similar reports have been coming in to Mayor Robinson all week and it is believed that the house will be packed with persons who wish to display their gratitude for the bigheartedness which has been shown by Mr. Girard toward civic and patriotic organizations in the past.

Tickets for the concert are being sold at the box office of the Glendale theatre and at the local Elks' clubhouse. The price of admission is set at $1.

Sycamore Canyon Proceedings Halted

Proceedings for the improvement of Sycamore canyon road were suddenly halted by the city council last night. The discovery was made, it was announced, that an error had been made in the proceedings and that they would have to be abandoned and started over again.

"It is exceedingly unfortunate, but it cannot be helped," was Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson's comment.

City Attorney Hartley Shaw was instructed to start the proceedings again.

SELFISH AND UN-AMERICAN

There has come to the notice of the publisher of The Glendale Evening News, this forenoon, a hand bill setting forth a statement that a business concern here plans to "save" the old high school and organize a junior high school. The plan presented may or may not have merit, but one thing sure, it is not at all American for any business institution to seek publicity at the expense of the public school system of America.

The schools of our land are too sacred to the people to allow any business concern, whether it be bank, real estate dealer, or newspaper, to attempt to gain favorable publicity before the eyes of the people in any such a selfish manner.

If the plan is good, it is one to be acted upon by the citizens of Glendale Union high school district. No individual or business firm should, in a glaring manner, seek to use the public schools as a means of publicity for selfish interests.

HARDING CABINET TALKS STRIKES FOR TWO HOURS

WASHINGTON, July 14.—For more than two hours President Harding and his cabinet today discussed in detail the acute industrial situation brought about by the combination rail and coal strike. When the cabinet meeting broke up shortly after noon there was no indication that any definite steps had been decided upon to bring about any settlement in the increasingly menacing railroad situation. Cabinet members left the president stating that there was "nothing new" to say about conditions and that anything of a positive nature would have to come from the president. It was apparent that the pessimism revealed earlier in the day had not been dissipated to any appreciable degree by the two hour and a half session.

PURCHASE OF NEW PARK IS CAUSE OF PROTESTS

Northwest Residents Ask Some Improvements Be Made at Patterson

Purchase of a new park in Verdugo canyon met with protest and plaudits at the meeting of the city council last night.

Owen C. Emery, on behalf of the Glendale Credit association, announced to the council that the business men proposed to picnic on August 16 at the new park, invited the council to participate, urged Mayor Spencer Robinson to write a proclamation declaring the day a holiday and suggested that the whole community gather for a great get-together outing. The idea seemed to take.

Police Judge F. H. Lowe complimented the council on buying the park. And then—

Representatives of the northwest section of the city arose and demanded to know why Patterson avenue park had not been improved in preference to purchasing another park.

Mayor Issues Defy

Some rather strong declarations were made by some of the speakers and Mayor Robinson answered them—and defied anyone to prove that the council had not secured a big bargain in the new park.

Some of the people in the northwest section stated that they had no fault to find with the purchase, but were complaining because Patterson park was being neglected so long.

This caused city officials to answer that plans have been outlined to provide money to finance improvements in Patterson park. It was also made known at the council meeting last night that the municipal plunge will be finished about July 31.

Speakers included Alex Mitchell, O. M. Newby, John R. Grey, H. S. Burn and Mrs. E. H. Botsford. The latter said that, in her opinion, the majority of the people in the northwest did not object to the purchase of the new park.

Work Will Start

The purchase of the new municipal park in Verdugo Woodlands will not interfere with the improvement of the Patterson avenue park, according to City Manager W. H. Reeves.

An intensified campaign will be commenced Monday on the west side park to improve it as rapidly as possible. The streets are to be graded and leveled at once. This action was decided upon last night by the city council, he stated today.

The city manager declares that the trees will be staked, the vicinity of the swimming pool cleaned up and the grounds otherwise beautified.

The Glendale Realty Company office at 131½ South Brand boulevard had the look and smell of a fish market this morning. C. D. P. C. Brown, the manager of the company, states that he and Mrs. Brown of 634 North Howard street are going to Balboa beach Sunday to enjoy the week-end with former Minnesota friends who now are residing at Anaheim. He does not intend to fish—not after the fish he got today from Mr. Thom.

Mass Meeting at High School Tonight

A mass meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school for the purpose, it is announced, of discussing a proposition to attempt to secure more bonds, the recently voted $600,000 being declared insufficient, and to attempt to have the old high school plant used as a junior high (intermediate school) which will entail either reorganization or a new organization of the district.

Bond Issues for $100,000 Will Be Submitted Voters

Voters in the city of Glendale will have the chance of balloting on municipal bond issues totaling $100,000, it was decided at the meeeting of the city council last night.

The issues will be submitted at the August primaries, asf follows:

Annex to city hall, $40,000.

Paving streets in front of school property, $35,000.

Comfort stations to be installed in business district, $25,000.

It was stated that the necessity of asking for money to pay for paving in front of school property arises from the fact that the school authorities declare they have not sufficient funds.

Cabinet Officers Comment

WASHINGTON, July 14. — While there was a general air of tenseness overhanging the cabinet meeting at the White House this morning, most of the members expressed confidence that a peaceful way will be found out of the industrial crisis.

Comment of members as they went into session follows:

Vice-President Coolidge — "I believe President Harding will find a way to solve the problems, serious though they may appear."

Postmaster-General Work — "Well, the situation does not look very cheerful, but it will come out all right."

Attorney-General Daugherty — "We received approximately 100 telegrams overnight from United States marshals and district attorneys. I haven't had a chance to digest them yet."

Secretary of Labor Davis— "I'm an optimist."

Secretary of War Weeks—"For the moment things appear quiet. I can't say anything further at this time."

Secretary of the Interior Fall— "Things don't look so cheerful as they might."

Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of Commerce Hoover declined to comment.

Plan Septic Tanks for Hotel Building

Lack of a sewer system will not prevent the erection of the new hotel.

"I believe that a private sewer system, consisting of septic tanks, can be put in which will prove temporarily satisfactory until a permanent sewer system has been installed," remarked George A. Whitney of the W. Ross Campbell company. "For instance, it would be the same sort of a system carried out in a large scale in Saratoga Springs and Massillion, Ohio.

"I don't consider the lack of a sewer system enough to stop us. Of course, it is a handicap and entails extra expense not only for the installation of the septic tanks, but also for their maintenance. I believe that this handicap can be overcome, however.

"There are two things that are absolutely necessary in building a city:

" 'One is an adequate supply of pure water; and the other is a sewer system.' "

The expense of installing septic tanks was not known by Mr. Whitney. He estimated that it might be as much as $10,000.

BOYS STAGE OLD TRICK ON FOLKS

Motorists Stop to Pick Up Pocketbook, Then Somebody Pulls the String

Anyone seen a pocketbook lying in the street?

A number of motorists during the past two weeks have seen a fat pocketbook lying on the pavement on South Central avenue, Eagle Rock, and have stopped their cars and got out to pick it up.

Just as they bend over to clutch the supposed lost gold, however, a small boy hidden from the street jerks a string and the pocketbook takes unto itself wings and vanishes amid a chorus of youthful chuckles. And the unhappy motorist climbs back into his car with a sigh and resolves never to stop for another pocketbook.

Half a dozen boys of the neighborhood have been getting a "big kick" for almost two weeks fooling motorists with the pocketbook attached to a string.

DUMAS' STORY IN GLENDALE'S FILM

Count of Monte Cristo Lives In Picture Like You Dreamed He Would

Today sees the last showing of "Monte Christo" at the Glendale theatre, a picture of remarkable scenic and histrionic power, taken from Dumas' novel. It is a production which foils complete description, but as one reviewer puts it:

"We're all children in one sense. We love to have our stories told always in the same way. Emmett Flynn, director, knew that, and has preserved for us perfectly the atmosphere of the story and play. He hasn't missed one single tick.

"I thought I'd surely scream if he didn't have the count stand on a rock, wave his arms, and cry, 'The world is mine,' in italics. And sure enough he did.

"What vitality the old story of the count has to be sure. The idea of a prisoner working his way out of a dungeon has always been a source of delight to us, from the days of Monte Cristo down to those of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

"And how thoroughly Dumas, like that touch where the count hands the diamond to his old enemies, well knowing it will work their ruin!

"The scenario is clear cut and convincing with the exception that it seemed to have been found necessary to slough over the pirate rescuing scenes."

You will enjoy it, however, and remember that vaudeville will be the feature tomorrow, matinee and night.

Sisterhood Class Enjoys Social Time

A goodly attendance is reported at the meeting of the Sisterhood class of the First Methodist church held Thursday afternoon in the church parlors.

There was a short business session and the remainder of the time was spent informally.

Miss Nettie Campbell gave two enjoyable piano numbers and Miss Charlotte Heroy and Mrs. A. E. Lass planned and directed the get acquainted feature of the afternoon.

To a lively march number the women marched around the room in couples and each woman was supposed to ask the name and address of her partner and when the music stopped partners changed. At the end of the march the women were given pencil and paper and asked to write down the names and addresses of all they had talked to. Prizes for the longest lists went to Mrs. T. L. Brown and Mrs. J. E. Meyer.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. S. D. Warner, Miss M. O. Marsh, Miss Charlotte Heroy, Mrs. Z. D. Boicourt, Mrs. C. S. Geiger and Miss Luella Collins.

Boxing and Wrestling Benefit for Tonight

Local sport fans will have their first chance in many moons to see some real boxing and grappling tonight when the Modern Woodmen benefit match is staged at 8 o'clock at the K. of P. hall, Park and Brand.

Four preliminary matches will precede the main event, in which Johnny Myers, fireman-fighter of Fire Station No. 2, will take on the 148-pound Stone, who is reported to be as hard as rock. Johnny has been hopiing for some time to exercise in a local ring, and is reported to be all set to hand stone the K. O.

Millard Young, managing the affair for the Woodmen, promises some snappy preliminaries, to be noted for their action and brevity.

Ralph Myers, Johnny's "kid" brother, is to meet "Dusky" Damsell in the first preliminary. Following that will be "Kid" Essick vs. "Battling" Morgan, the springy little 118-pound scrapper.

The Smith vs. Burd match promises to be high pressure stuff, ranging near the heavyweight class.

As a special feature in the boxing circus, Young promises a good wrestling match in which Walter Dodge, said to be former champion of Arizona, is to grapple with Dave Casa Grande.

Women are invited to attend the contest, and a large attendance of the gentler sex is expected. The first argument is to start promptly at 8 o'clock, according to Manager Young, and the bouts will be run off without the usual dragging.

HERE'S A DOGGONE GOOD TALE OF TWO DOGS

Eagle Rock Home Robbed Soon After Pets Are Sent to Country

By GEORGE VAN SANDS

Mrs. E. B. Spraker lives at 157 East Eagle avenue, Eagle Rock, and her next door neighbor is Mrs. Carl Hagen. A short while back both families kept dogs.

The Spraker dog was a big Scotch Collie, while the Hagen pet was just common hound variety.

The Sprakers and the Hagens are the best of friends, and the dogs ate out of the same plate.

Outside of eating, the best things these dogs did was to keep hard looking strangers off the premises, and as watch dogs Mrs. Sprakers "Muggins" and Mrs. Hagen's "Spot" had no equal in Eagle Rock, and there was never a tramp or burglar ventured on East Eagle avenue.

Muzzle Time Comes

Summer time came, and the board of trustees passed an ordinance that rested sort of hard on the whole canine family. They all had to be tied, or muzzled, and when "Muggins" and "Spot" had to sit around all day tied with a rope, it just about broke their hearts. Even the cats in the neighborhood began to get very bold.

What lover of dogs could stand to see the agony expressed in the eyes of these dogs as they pined for liberty and strained at the ropes that held them. Neither Mrs. Spraker nor Mrs. Hagen could stand it and much as they liked animals, they decided they would rather give them up than chain them up.

A few days ago new homes were found for the dogs. "Spot" went to A. E. Taylor, in the bookkeeping department at the city hall, and "Muggins" found a new home in the country. Everybody on East Eagle avenue missed them and wondered where they had gone.

Robbers Make Haul

The very same night these dogs left, the Hagen home at 147 East Eagle avenue was entered by burglars and looted of some $500 worth of silver, jewelry and miscellaneous articles. This has been reported to the police department and every effort has been made to trace the thieves, but without avail.

The only thing that the neighbors are sure of in this regard is that the robbery never would have occurred if "Muggins" or "Spot" had been on the job.

Now if any one knows of a good watchdog that needs a home, just turn him loose, as the chances are there are two nice homes on Eagle avenue where a dog would get a welcome.

Oswald's Escapade at Night Sells Lot

Milton H. Berry, Jr., reports the real estate game in Eagle Rock good. Selling lots by moonlight is the latest escapade of "Oswald," Berry's right hand man. Oswald closed the fourth deal of the week late Wednesday night when he sold to Horace L. Pickett the lot on South Satsuma and Sycamore belonging to Mr. Packard. Berry has great faith in Oswald's ability by moonlight and also his own, he says, but only along the lines of real estate.

Miners Poorly Paid, Officials Declare

WASHINGTON—Coal miners are paid cheaply for their labor, considering the hazards of their work and other factors, government officials are convinced, after a study of the miners' side of the controversy with the operators.

The human element in coal production at last is recognized by the government as the chief thing to be weighed in coal strike settlements.

One of the chief spokesmen for the administration in coal problems — Secretary Hoover — declared emphatically that permanent settlement of coal strike troubles, present or future, can only be possible by removing from coal production the ever-present danger of intermittency.

As long as the industry is so constituted that coal mines are allowed to stagger along, working two or three days a week and keeping men employed only part of the time, strikes are inevitable.

This element of "intermittency" Mr. Hoover is convinced, has led to much of the trouble which now confronts the country by a tie-up of most of the soft coal mines. In other words, the coal mine laborer is worthy of his hire and should be assured reasonable wage and reasonable periods of employment.

Besides doing the most undesirable form of labor, the miner works at the whim of a system which may or may not so manipulate the production strings—and in turn production prices—that the average worker gambles on the size of his pay envelope from week to week.

Government records now show that the coal miner receives a lower annual wage than workers in most other industries. It is the time out of work that puts a crimp in his wallet and leaves him owing the grocer and the landlord. If he has a family his risks are even greater. There is still lacking that assurance which ultimately must be given the miner, of reasonable certainty of employment.

Just how the element of intermittent employment can best be overcome is not yet clearly indicated. Some suggestions have been made that the operators themselves must take the lead and reform their own industry. If they do not, say some government observers, the government may in the end be forced to take a hand and attempt a solution of what is now regarded on all sides as a major problem, along with the railroad problem.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. ELIZABETH B. BLANK

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth B. Blank will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Friday, July 14, 1922, at the Little Church of the Flowers under the direction of Pulliam-Kiefer & Eyerick.

A daughter, Miss Ruth Blank, resides at 314 North Orange street.

Mrs. Blank was 55 years of age and a native of Kentucky. She had lived in Glendale only two weeks.

Guests at Home of William J. Bryan

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Harper and children, Talbot and Hope, of 508 Fairmont avenue, were the all-day guests on Thursday of Mrs. William Jennings Bryan and daughter, Mrs. Richard D. Hargreaves, at the prominent statesman's beautiful home in Hollywood. The day was enjoyed in talking over events of several years ago, when the two families were neighbors in Miami, Florida.

Mrs. Harper and Mrs. Bryan became intimately acquainted with each other when both were members of the Royal Palm State park committee of Florida, of which body Mrs. Bryan was chairman. The Royal Palm park, besides being noted for its wonderful semi-tropic beauty, is unique in the fact that it is the only park in the nation that is owned and managed by a body of women—the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs.

The park, which is termed by some as being the most beautiful one in the United States, is located seventy miles south of Miami and occupies a tract containing 360 acres. It is famed for its numerous semi-tropic wonders, headed by numerous royal palm trees and rare semi-tropical trees.

Great Britain Will Pay Its U. S. Debt

LONDON, July 14.—Formal and official announcement that Great Britain will pay her debt of $4,300,000,000 to the United States was made in the house of commons this afternoon by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the British exchequer.

"Our debt to the United States is a solemn obligation and it will be met," said Sir Robert.

It is expected that this announcement will put an end to talk of "debt cancellations."

"It is essential for the economic development of the world that British indebtedness to the United States be placed upon a staple and equitable basis," Former Premier Asquith said in commons earlier in the afternoon.

"America stepped into the breach during the war when there was no other source of supply. She rendered priceless service to the allies."

British Women Are Ejected From Theatre

BERLIN—Two English women smoking cigarets during a performance of Richard Wagner's "Twilight of the Gods," at the Munich opera house, were compelled to leave the theatre, the audience frantically applauding their being escorted out by a policeman.

Commenting on the incident, the Muenchener Nachrichten ironically advised the management to issue "rules of etiquette" for special use of foreigners, alleging that the "Huns" and "boches" still reverence art like a fetish, which, through the eyes of "real civilized countries," may be looked upon as very "reactionary."

ISAAC CLINE IS BUILDER

Isaac Cline, local building contractor, yesterday began the erection of a seven-room California bungalow to be located on North Central avenue. The home is to be owned by Jesse Smith, of the local Ford Agency.

Chance Found to Be Best as Detective

PARIS.—"Who is the best detective of modern times?" was asked of M. Faralicq, director of the judicial police of Paris, corresponding somewhat to the plain-clothes men of an American city.

"His name is Chance," was the instant reply.

"Sherlock Holmes isn't in the running with Chance," continued Faralicq, who has brought to a successful termination some of the most baffling cases of the last ten years.

"It is easy for a novelist gifted with a certain amount of imagination and knowledge of of criminality to solve a criminal problem which he has invented himself.

"Writers of detective fiction make the mistake of devoting too much attention to material signs or clews. The examination of footprints, cigaret ashes and so on and the logical deduction to be made therefrom are the A B C of the ordinary police detective.

"But nothing is more likely to lead to false conclusions. Twenty or thirty persons may have walked over the ground trodden by the criminal or have smoked cigarets on the scene of the crime. Scores of extraneous circumstances may have to be taken into account.

"No, after all, Chance is the wizard of crime detection, present, past and future. His divinity is named Luck! The real art of grabbing the opportunity which the goddess Luck presents and utilizing it with intelligence.

"Therefore, the ideal detective must have his eyes on everything and be able to make a prompt decision. That's his system. Could Sherlock Holmes do better?"

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.

Postmaster Jackson Agrees to Work in Conjunction With Committee

sists of Charles E. Stanley, 108 North Everett street; R. M. Brown, 106 South Glendale avenue; Herman Nelson, 100 South Glendale avenue.

Postmaster Jackson stated definitely that he was prepared to take action as soon as the committee should report. He suggested that it might be well to keep him in touch with negotiations.

Extension of the Glendale & Montrose railway line along West Broadway was mentioned by Dr. Harrower, who said that the matter was being quietly considered. He also mentioned the proposed bridge over the Los Angeles river at West Broadway and the terminus of West Broadway as a site of the new Southern Pacific station and said that these matters should all be considered with reference to each other. He reminded those present that the proper time to get a street car line laid on West Broadway is before the street is paved.

"The Southern Pacific," said Dr. Harrower, "if they give us a depot, will not buy land at the end of Broadway. "If we can put over this Broadway site, we have got to come through with a piece of land on a platter."

The opportunity for someone to donate a depot site was not stressed.

Would Remove Spur

Inviting the Pacific Electric to remove its spur track on Sycamore Canyon road and extend its East Broadway line to the new high school site was suggested by Dr. Harrower and endorsed by the association.

C. W. Ingledue, who presided, appointed a committee to take this matter up with the railroad officials and the city administration. It consists of Dr. Harrower, C. S. Stuart, 638 East Broadway; S. C. Kinch, 328 North Brand boulevard; O. W. Tarr, 703 South Glendale avenue; and W. C. Page, 306 East Broadway.

"We are working morning, noon and night on this hotel proposition," declared Mrs. Mabel L. Tight of 612 East Broadway. "We have not met with the success that we thought that we should get on the west side of Glendale. I think it is very vital that this thing should be put over as soon as possible.

George A. Whitney of the W. Ross Campbell Company, commented upon the campaign and answered questions in regard to the financial details.

At the suggestion of Herman Nelson the association went on record opposed to the sale of the present high school site and opposed to the issuance of more bonds for high school purposes.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The navy department has announced that it was ready to carry the United States mails by airplane if railroad transportation broke down because of the shopmen's strike.

Railroads Failed to Obey Orders of Board, Is Alleged

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The charge of striking shopmen that the railroads' management had violated the transportation act and refused to obey orders of the railway labor board was upheld by Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, author of the act, and chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Cummins declared "numerous instances had come to his attention," showing the railroads had "ignored or failed to obey" orders of the board. He contended the board, however, had taken steps to compel obedience. The strike was not justified because of the attitude of the executives, since employers themselves were willing to listen to arbitration, he said.

Large Open Market For Sebastian Store

Changes and improvements are being made in the Sebastian grocery and market at 145 North Glendale acenue, as a result of an increasing demand for a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables.

The store front has been taken off the large room and removable screens substituted, making the place an open market. A large modern fruit and vegetable stand has been erected at the front of the room, facing the sidewalk, on which will be displayed the large line of perishable produce which Howard R. Sebastian, proprietor of the market, intends to carry.

There has been such a demand for fruit and vegetables in large variety, says Mr. Sebastian, that with his increased facilities for handling and displaying, he will do both a retail and wholesale business in this line. He expects to be able to furnish the produce at very reasonable prices by buying in considerable quantities.

In addition to his fruit and vegetable department, Mr. Senastian carries a large line of staple groceries, meats, tobacco and drinks. In fact, as he says, the place is a regular public market.

The demand for fruit he attributes to his location, at the corner of Glendale avenue and Wilson. Ample parking facilities on both sides of the street attract persons of the neighborhood who do not care to hunt for a parking place in more congested districts, and Mr. Sebastian, the butcher and three clerks are kept busy.

Local Folk Taking Part In Production

James W. Horne, a director for the Thomas H. Ince studios, is in San Francisco at present making a picture for the Pacific Studios, which have their plant at San Mateo. The company has the screen rights for the celebrated novel, "The Modern Madonna," and Cleo Ridgely (Mrs. Horne) is cast in the leading role. It is the first time she has not played a vampire role since returning to pictures.

Alice Hollister of this city is among the supporting cast, which includes Milton Sills, Alec Francis, Jack Mulhall and other stars.

Mr. and Mrs. Horne, who reside at 1445 Valley View road, were so lost without little Jimmie, Jr., and June that Mrs. A. T. Dobson of 809 Melrose avenue took the youngsters north last week and is staying with the film party.

Ornamental Lights Assured Boulevard

As there were only about 800 feet of frontage protesting against installing ornamental lights on San Fernando boulevard at the city council meeting last night and over 5,000 feet of frontage in favor, the council voted to overrule the protest and take further steps to secure the improvement. Representatives of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association applauded as the unanimous vote was recorded.

Brother of Glendale Man Dies In Crash

Reports from Monrovia state that Will Maurer of Los Angeles, who died Monday in a Monrovia hospital from injuries received when his automobile turned turtle on the Foothill boulevard just bevond the bridge over the San Gabriel wash, is survived by a brother, Joseph A. Maurer of Glendale. He resides on West Cypress street, coming here last Saturday.

It is said that the deceased was on his way to camp in San Gabriel canyon, where he was to search for what he believed to be a rich mine of gold and silver.

Just how the accident occurred is not known. However, it is thought that his car was topheavy with camping equipment and that, perhaps, the steel ring gear may have buckled on the turn.

Sympathy and Not Censure Is Needed

AKRON, Ohio—"When young people go wrong, don't censure them. Love them," said Rev. Orris W. Haulman, during a sermon at Grace Reformed church.

"The outstanding tendency of the present age is the utter willingness of boys and girls to throw themselves away upon one another," Rev. Dr. Haulman continued.

"I am not a particularly handsome man, but, when I am unfrocked and walk down the street a surprising number of strange young women indicate a willingness to take up with me.

"Young women whom I know tell me the same story. If they are walking along the street they are accosted and spoken to from all sides.

"The situation is not one peculiar to Akron. It exists everywhere. Not since the age of Nero has there been such a magnifying of sex.

"For three years I have been studying the situation. I never preached a sermon on it, because I thought it was something that would pass. But the tendencies are still decidedly free.

"The question is: 'What kind of homes are these free young people going to establish? Will they not speedily tire of the partners whom they pick up so casually?"

"The Bible tells of a woman named Bernice who attended the trial of the Apostle Paul. History tells that she married her uncle and then led an adulterous life with her brother, Agrippa II. Then she was married to a king of Asia Minor, but the life was too tame for her, and she returned to her brother.

Turkeys Needed to Destroy Grasshoppers

SHERIDAN, Wyo. — "More turkeys" is the cry of Sheridan county farmers in their battle against the grasshopper pest, which has been very destructive in this vicinity recently.

According to Alfred Eastgate, engaged in grasshopper control work here for the United States government, one turkey will consume seven bushels of grasshoppers during a season, and he is urging farmers to increase their flocks.

More than six tons of poison, including arsenic and amyl acetate mixed with bran and molasses, has been used in Sheridan county during the past month in the fight against grasshoppers, which threaten ranges and farms with greater destruction than for many years.

D. degree by the University of Chicago, at an age when most persons who attend college and universities are entering upon their freshman year.

VACATION AT U. S. EXPENSE TABOO, IS WARNING

Uncle Sam Puts Crimp in Travel Abuses as Result of Budget Reductions

WASHINGTON, July 14. — There will be no merry skylarking this summer by Uncle Sam's army of workers at seashore and mountain tops at government expense.

Your Uncle Sam has put a crimp in free travel abuses. The lid has been clamped down on government railroad travel vouchers. In other years thousands have flocked to the summer resorts on the easily procured travel slips.

The young "swell" or "pretty doll" on the government payroll in the old days ran the gamut of "business" excuses, and drew free travel checks besides the usual per diem allowance for subsistence while absent from Washington.

Later on the usual thirty days' annual vacation leave with pay allowed government workers was utilized to drive dull care away.

Economy Campaign

Now, however, under a rigid economy drive by the president and General Dawes, director of the budget, useless travel by government officials or employes of any rank is forbidden.

Bureau chiefs are held responsible strictly for abuses of the free travel privilege. It is effecting a saving to the treasury of many millions of dollars annually.

Treasury experts declare that in preceding years the government outlay for this purpose was something in the nature of a scandal. Every government department has its corps of special investigators and experts, many of whom want to gallop at will and at government expense.

Until recently, officials complained that the hardest work performed by some of this class was that of drawing their semi-monthly pay.

The efficiency and economy program has done much to speed up work, and to eliminate waste time and waste motion. Under reorganization plans government workers do not find idleness such a joy as in the days of old.

More Reductons

This has come through the program of reducing the bureaus to normal strength. It has meant a lot of trimming in personnel. Still a lot more will be done before peace time basis is reached.

Many of the government departments are overmanned. The civil service, now under attack by Republican leaders, is said to have installed thousands in jobs which might easily be abolished without crippling government work.

Voice Highways

Town, county or state boundaries are not the boundaries of telephone service.

Stretching from each telephone to every other telephone there is a voice highway. Its use may be had for the asking.

On these highways there may be business waiting—there may be the pleasure and comfort of friendship and affection.

Long distance rates vary during the twenty-four hours of the day, and also change according to the class of service desired. The telephone directory gives full information.

SPECIAL PROGRAM BEING OFFERED AT T. D. & L.

Orpheum Circuit Act One Feature; Manager Allan Says 'Come Early'

What is said by Ralph Allan to be the "biggest" show ever offered the people of Glendale at regular popular prices is the special program he has arranged for the T. D. & L. theatre tonight—tonight only at 7 and 9 p. m. Here is the line-up:

"The Classical Jazz Revue," the big act that opens on the Orpheum circuit Sunday. This clever little musical act, which is also known as "The Harmony Five," offers the best entertainment of its kind ever heard in Glendale.

Dorothy Darling, who comes to Glendale direct from the Orpheum, Jr., of San Francisco, where she was billed as "Sophie Tucker's Rival." Miss Darling recently made such a tremendous hit in Kansas City that she was held over for ten weeks following her scheduled appearance.

Then there are Ates and Van, who will put on the comical blackface act that is guaranteed to tickle the "laugh" spot of every one who hears them.

These three stellar vaudeville acts are offered by Ralph Allan in addition to the film attractions, which will consist of Thomas Maighan in his latest success, "Our Leading Citizen," and the riotous comedy, Ham Lloyd Hamilton's "The Poor Boy."

"Two hours of the best entertainment ever enjoyed by a Glendale audience," says Manager Allan," and all for our regular admission prices, too. Tell the folks through the columns of The Glendale Evening News to 'come early.' Two shows tonight only—the first at 7 o'clock and the second at 9 o'clock."

California Aviators Must Have Licenses

SACRAMENTO — Superintendent Charles J. Chenu, of the state motor vehicle department, has issued a warning to all aviators in California to apply to his office for licenses or cease flying. Pilots operating without licenses will be arrested and prosecuted by agents of the motor vehicle department Chenu declared. He has inaugurated a clean up campaign to round up all violators of the law requiring pilots to be licensed.

This law was passed by the last legislature. The first arrest under its provisions was made in San Francisco recently and Chenu states that additional arrests may be expected unless the law is complied with.

POWER AMPLIFICATION

The ordinary amplifier tubes will not handle the amount of power frequently required by loud speaking devices and it becomes advisable to use transmitting or power tubes. The five-watt tubes are very good for this purpose. They require high plate voltages and large negative grid biasing voltages for proper operation, but here again the actual plate and actual bias voltage depend upon the amphitude of the input potentials. The output resistance of a vacuum tube is the internal resistance between plate and filament. The external resistance is the resistance of the external plate circuit. The external resistance is really an impedance when a loud speaker or the primary of a transformer is included in the circuit. This external impedance should equal the output impedance of the tube for power amplification at the average audio frequency.

If sufficient power amplification cannot be obtained with one tube, two tubes may be connected in parallel of a larger power tube may be used. Sometimes it is also desirable to use one stage of voltage amplification between the detector and the power amplifier in order to swing the grid potential variations of the power tube through large values.

As a matter of fact a transformer does amplify power, but may be used in connection with either voltage or current amplification. If the external impedence were zero the current amplification would be maximum, but there would be no voltage amplification. Current amplification is of course the ratio of current in the final plate or output circuit to the current in the original amplifier grid or output circuit, however, is measured by the product of the voltage times the current and a certain factor in the case of alternating current. In the case of the power amplifier the actual power is maximum, as has been stated, when the output impedance equals the external impedance.

In the case of most really practical loud speakers there is a transformer between the output circuit of the last tube and the actuating coil of the loud speaker. This transformer has an impedance ratio, primary to secondary, equal to the ratio output impedance to external or load impedance at the average audi frequency.

The five-watt power tubes operate on high plate voltages up to 350 volts and, therefore, the primary of any transformer connected into the plate circuit of such a tube must be capable of withstanding the voltage. Otherwise their is danger of overheating or burning out the windings. The negative biasing potentials required may be as high as 20 volts, in which case "C" batteries are generally used.

NEW APPARATUS AND DEVICES

RADIO ENGINEER, CUTTING AND WASHINGTON RADIO CORP

A RECEIVER WITH RADIO AND AUDIO FREQUENCY AMPLIFIER

This receiving set is especially designed for use where a comparatively large amount of power is required to operate a loud speaker on a rather weak signal. In addition to the receiver itself, it comprises two stages of radio frequency amplification, vacuum tube detector, one stage of ordinary audio frequency and one stage of power (audio frequency) amplification. Its use permits of connecting a number of loud speakers together where it is desired to distribute the sound around a very large room. Each tube is provided with a separate filament rheostat, which provides for flexibility, since tubes have been known to vary somewhat.

Tuning is accomplished by means of two knobs and a wheel located at the extreme left of the panel. The lower knob controls a secondary condenser and the upper knob controls the coupling between the primary, or antenna, circuit and the tuned secondary circuit. The secondary inductance is not variable. The primary inductance is varied in steps by means of a wheel which does not appear in the illustration, but is mounted concentric with the axis of the upper knob. A screened "peek-hole" is provided for each tube, so that the brilliancy of the filaments may be observed.

A cam switch, the one at the left, provides for use of the radio frequency circuits only, or both radio and audio frequency at will. The cam switch a little to the right of the former is an automatic "off and on" switch to light or extinguish the filaments. The automatic control jacks provide for the use of the detector, detector and one audio frequency stage, detector with one audio stage and two radio frequency stages with detector, ordinary audio and power amplification.

The cabinet is of mahogany, very nicely finished, and the panel is of bakelite. It presents a handsome appearance and is very well constructed.

Twin Lost; Mother Cannot Tell Which

BALTIMORE.—With tears streaming down her face, the mother of twins reached the police station here only to find she did not know which one of the pair was lost. Edwin and Milton Gosiorowski are twin sons of Mrs. Phillipina Gosiorowski. Edwin got lost.

Mrs. Gosiorowski hurried back home to ask the other which he was. He said he was Milton, so an alarm was spread for Edwin. Two hours later he was found.

TEDDY'S NAME

Dorothy was given a new teddy bear whose shoe-button eyes were sewed on so crookedly that bruin wore a tailor made squint. Dorothy appeared to make no comment on the ocular equipment of her new toy until the following Sunday. She returned from Sunday school and announced that Teddy's name was Gladly.

"Why Gladly, dear?" she was asked.

"Oh, it must be Gladly," Dorothy insisted, "for in Sunday school this morning we can 'Gladly a Cross-Eyed Bear.'"

FRENCH PRESIDENT ESCAPES DEATH BY BULLETS

Assassin Shoots at Chief Executive but Misses; Wounds Woman

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, July 14.—An unsuccessful attempt was made today to assassinate President Alexander Millerand of the French republic and Premier Poincare. The secretary of the Paris Society of Anarchists was arrested, charged with the crime.

President Millerand and Premier Poincare were returning from Longchamps to Paris by automobile when the attempted murder took place.

The assassin, evidently knowing the plans of the officials, had hidden himself to await the arrival of the president and premier. He was armed with a revolver. While M. Millerand and M. Poincaire escaped, one of the bullets struck and wounded a woman.

Prisoner Is Nervous

The prisoner was very nervous when arrested and the police attributed the escape of the two officials to his anxiety and the fact that the motor car in which the premier and president were riding was traveling at a rapid rate.

The prisoner, Gustav Bouvet, aged 23, told the police that he did not mean to kill M. Millerand and M. Poincare, but merely intended to make a hostile demonstration. Policemen declared, however, that Bouvet had been seen to take careful aim.

When searched today, two revolvers upon the prisoner were found. There were 25 cartridges in his pockets. He was immediately arraigned for preliminary hearing. Policemen gave testimony against the prisoner. They said he fired at a distance of only seven feet. Madame Marie Dulcan, who was wounded in the arm, was still hysterical and could not testify.

New Officers Chosen For Women's Union

At the regular meeting of the Women's Home Mission society held at the Casa Verdugo M. E. church yesterday afternoon, a pleasing program was presented, under the direction of Mrs. Robert D. Jones. The opening address was given by Little Jane Elizabeth Dickerson, reading by Loraine Masters, and solos rendered by Ruth Koenig and Martha Jones.

These were followed by a novel feature, "Receipts for a Good Program," with contributions read by each member of the society.

Mrs. O. E. Goetz, the retiring president, presided at the business session and new officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Mary E. Koenig, president; Mrs. Robert D. Jones, vice-president; Mrs. J. S. Dickerson, secretary-treasurer.

The Glendale Elks band is tuning up under the direction of Ralph Kinney to march away with one cup and maybe more at the big band contest that will feature the state convention of Elks in October at Santa Monica.

There are thirty-five pieces in the Glendale band and according to Maurice Burke, manager, they are going to burst forth into such a volume of harmony at the beach convention that the judges will have to award them a cup to get them to stop.

KELLY OF SEALS TAKES LEAD IN STICK WORK

Jumps From Seventh Place to First; O'Connell Has Decided Slump

From seventh place to the lead in the batting averages in a week's series is the record established last week by Kelly of the San Francisco Seals. For the week ending July 2, Kelly had an average of .367 and 80 base hits out of 218 times at bat. In the series just closed against Portland he was twenty-seven times at bat and netted 14 base hits, showing an average for this series of .519. The result is that he raised his average over the week, for the total season's percentages to date, from .367 to .387—an increase of exactly twenty points, a larger gain than any of the leading batsmen have shown for several weeks past.

O'Connell, who led the league batting practically every week up to five or six weeks ago, has taken a decided slump. Five weeks ago his percentage showed .410 and since that date he has steadily gone on a decline so that his average for the week ending last Sunday only showed .374. On the other hand Strand, Salt Lake, Hale, Portland, Smith, Vernon, and Kelly of San Francisco, have all been showing consistent hitting and they have added to their averages steadily and are all now leading O'Connell.

Seattle appears to have taken a new lease of life and the way they drubbed Los Angeles in last week's series shows the Siwashes in a much better light than in the previous part of the season. The seven victories of Seattle to one by the Angels caused the latter to drop twenty-two points in the standing percentage which sent them from fourth to fifth position, while on the other hand Seattle jumped from .427 in the standings for the week ending July 3 to .464 per cent for week-ending July 9, which shot them up from second last berth in the standings to sixth position, displacing Portland, while Sacramento continues to occupy the cellar position.

The leaders in the various departments of the batting averages for the entire season up to and including the games last Sunday, follow:

Most runs — O'Connell, S. F., 78.

Most base hits—O'Connell, S. F., 132.

Most two-baggers—Siglin, S. L., 31; Poole, Portland, 31.

Most three-baggers — Hawks, Vernon, 12.

Most home runs—Griggs, L. A., 13; Schick, S. L., 13.

Most sacrifices—Wilie, Oaks, 30; McCann, Portland, 30.

Most stolen bases — Cooper, Oaks, 29.

GLENDALE TEAM HAS RECORD OF NINE GAMES WON OUT OF ELEVEN

Manager John A. Cobb and His Squad of Ball Players Deserving of Much Credit.

By TED JOHNSON

Glendale this year boasts of a semi-professional baseball team which has won nine of the eleven games played. One of the games lost ran to fifteen innings, and in the other the locals loaned the Los Angeles Heralds three of their men .

To develop a team which can make such a record, without a last year's team from which to draw experienced players, is an achievement. To Manager John A. Cobb and a number of the local business men belong the credit for building a first class team out of material which had to be sought out and which at first received little support.

It is the belief of The Glendale Evening News sporting department that the people of Glendale should become better acquainted with the members of the home team which is doing considerable advertising for the city without much support.

SAM BELL, first base, is the only man on the team this year to knock out a home run. Besides one homer, he has a number of triples to his credit. Sam was with the Redondo Beach club last year, and for two games this year, but decided to play with the Merchants.

JOE CUMMINGS, second base, is a steady and dependable second sacker, combining good fielding with consistent hitting. He was on the Glendale Union high school team several years ago and has had enough baseball experience so that he never loses his head.

FRANK ACOSTA, third base, needs no introduction to Glendale folks. He played the same position two years ago with the local Elks team and is also known locally in the cement contracting business. Frank is good at fielding and in the opinion of Manager Cobb is the best hitter on the team. His batting average runs about .418.

MARSHALL WILSON, shortstop, has played with the Glendale high team for the past two years in the second base position, and is to return to the school for his final year next fall. "Spark Plug," as the boys call him, is a sure-fire player, and although in high school, displays the ability of a leaguer.

CLARENCE JENSEN, right field, is known in local athletic circles for his playing last winter on the night school basketball team. In his high school days "Hoolie" held down the left field for three years on the Armstrong, Iowa, high school team. Besides cavorting around the right garden, he is an employe of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co.

LEO BUCK, center field, is an all around good player. He is an almost sure hitter, runs bases like any frightened "buck," and is a steady and dependable fielder. He ls considered a first-class lead off man. Buck hails from El Centro where he is a school physical instructor.

JOHN A. COBB, left field, also manages the team and is an efficient substitute for almost any position in case of emergency. "Ty" played on a team in a middle western league last year, and later manager a team in a middle western league last year, and later managed a team in the city league at Colorado Springs. At one time he managed the Gillette Safety Razor company team in Boston, and once played with the Worcester, Mass., team in the old New England, now the Eastern league. He is a player of considerable experience, which makes him especially capable as a manager.

IRA KING, catcher, has received an offer from Tulsa, Okla., and is to leave for that city next fall, to play in the winter schedule of the Western league. 'Baby' as the little 200-odd pounder is called, puts life into any game, and is one of these catchers the pitcher doesn't have to worry about when he puts one miles off the plate. For the past two years the Babe has played on some of the best Los Angeles semi-pro teams, and it seems that he is now bound for the big game.

CHARLES FLANDERS, outfielder, is a native of Glendale and is known to all the local fans. "Chuck" is a consistent and dependable player, and covers any of the outer gardens with ability. In addition to playing with the Merchants, "Chuck" is employed at the Los Angeles Basket company.

WESLEY AAGESON, pitcher, hurled all last year for Glendale Union high school. Although "Aggie" couldn't technically be considered a veteran, he pitches like one. As a fan was heard to remark at one of the games, "That boy is going to get in the big leagues as sure as anything." Manager Cobb is also of the opinion that "Aggie" is on a road that will soon take him into the majors.

DENNIS R. JOHNSON, pitcher, has rare control over the ball, and can be depended upon to hold the opposing team down to very few hits. "Jack" started last season with the Birmingham team in the Southern Association, but was sold to Newbern, N. C., in the Eastern Carolina league. It is said that when "Jack" pitched against the Chicago ladies his matinee idol face made them forget all they ever knew about baseball.

JACK KEARNS, pitcher, is an athlete and pitcher of long standing. During the war he was a physical instructor in the United States Marine corps. Before coming to Glendale he pitched for the Taft team. He gets good practice during the week in chasing flies in the city hall where he is a sergeant on the police force.

WALTER HEIDLER, pitcher, has made considerable pitching record both before and since coming to Glendale. He was formerly with the Osceola club in the Virginia Valley association, and early this year was with the Pasadena Legion team. On the Fourth of July he pitched a wonderful game against the Tujunga Valley club at Sunland.

DAN HARRIS, pitcher, has been in Glendale only about a month and has already made his mark. He was formerly with the Phoenix Tigers, the winners of the Arizona state championship in 1921. Pitching his first game here, "Slim" last Sunday struck out fifteen men of the Pasadena Legion team.

And not to forget anyone, there is James Keogh, the 10-year-old mascot and bat boy, who is appropriately termed "Freckles." Although the team has made no long trips as yet, it is expected that when they do, the hard boiled little bat boy will go along.

Evans and Duncan In Feature Contest

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
For International News Service.

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB, Glencoe, Ill., July 14—Followed by one of the largest galleries that ever assembled to witness a golf contest, Chick Evans of Edgewater, the former national champion, and George Duncan, the British star, engaged in a pretty exhibition in the first feature match in the finals of the national open championship here today. Evans finished the first nine holes with a 35, while Duncan required a 39.

While Duncan was out-driving his partner on every hole, the Chicago star excelled on the green.

The card for the first nine holes:

Evans:
Out .....534 454 244—35

Duncan's card:
Out .....445 464 453—39

Of the early starters, however, the honor of registering the lowest score for the outward nine went to Clarence Hackney, of Atlantic City, N. J., who finished the distance in par—34 strokes. His card:
Out 435 444 343 34

Tagging All Bases

Thanks to the fact that Groh's homer, a trick affair that rolled under the left field stands and scored three runs in the third, the Giants, were able to carry the Cubs to the twelfth before they lost, 5 to 4.

Heilman clipped two homers out of the park, bringing his total to sixteen for the season, and Veach obliged with another, yet the Tigers finished a disinterested second to the Athletics, 9 to 4.

It is a case of Weep No More, My Robbie. The Dodgers managed to win their first game in nine starts when Sherrod Smith relieved Vance and retired Daubert and Duncan in succession with the tying run on first.

One trifling infield scratch hit by Walker stepped between Salivary Willie Doak and no-hit fame as the Cards beat the Phils, 1 to 0.

SACRAMENTO CLUB IS REALLY OUT OF RUNNING

Seven Other Teams In Coast League Are In Fight for 1922 Pennant

With mid-season for the playing schedule of the Pacific Coast league at hand, it may be said there is practically only one team out of the running. This is the Sacramento club which looks, at the present time, destined to fill the cellar position, having assumed the steady guardianship of that lowly post since the Portlanders got out of it.

The seven other teams in the league all are in the fight. While Vernon and San Francisco, now battling for the league lead, have a considerable margin over the third team in the race, it does not signify much. A slump for any protracted time quickly will wipe out what is there. Oakland, Salt Lake, Seattle, Los Angeles and Portland are so close on each other's heels that it would be impossible to say which of the teams would be in the lead at the end of the next series.

Comparative Standings

The comparative standings of the teams this year as compared to the mid-season standings last year are as follows:

1921—	W.	L.	Pct.
Vernon	58	35	624
San Francisco	60	38	612
Oakland	50	49	505
Salt Lake	45	47	489
Los Angeles	47	52	475
Seattle	45	52	464
Portland	43	51	457
Sacramento	37	61	377
1922—	W.	L.	Pct.
San Francisco	62	38	620
Seattle	57	38	600
Sacramento	59	40	596
Oakland	52	43	547
Los Angeles	49	44	527
Vernon	49	50	495
Salt Lake	34	59	366
Portland	21	71	228

It is interesting to note that Los Angeles, which last year won the pennant, was in fifth position, just as it is this year at the present time, although its percentage was better and it did not have so much ground to make up. It also is interesting to note that San Francisco, which led the league last year at the present time, finished a relatively poor third in the race. Vernon, Salt Lake, Portland all were conceded to be out of the running, while this year, all three of them are still strongly in the fight for the bunting.

Los Angeles, which so many picked to be a repeater this season as a champion, has been making a sorry showing. Two months ago it came to life and, for a few weeks, it looked as if the southern Californians had gotten into the old stride, but it turned out to be a mere flash in the pan, and they have been steadily declining ever since.

Few weeks in the past have resulted in so many changes of position as the last series, and with the teams so closely bunched as to percentage, it looks as if changes would be frequent from now on.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 14.—The recent passing of George Gibson from the payroll of the Pittsburg National League ball club and the lists of major league managers gives ample evidence of the uncertainty of managerial favor. One year ago almost to the month George Gibson was embarking on a promising career as leader of the Pittsburg Pirates. In a few buck jumps he took his team to the pace and kept it there until late August. At that time Gibson had the world by the tail and was swinging it about his graying head.

Came then the disastrous series with the Giants, in which the Pirates' seven-game lead disappeared with unseemly haste, and the team was fortunate to finish second. Whereupon Gibson was given a clean bill of health on the collapse, the blame laid to lack of training and dissension and the disturbers given highly beneficial aid during the off season.

The result: The Pirates struck a slump with the season only a few weeks advanced, have been at it more or less industriously ever since, and Gibson, the man of the hour in July, 1921, passes on out with the coming of July, 1922.

"A hero one day, a bum the next," applies more readily to baseball than to any other activity of the sport field. A glance at Gibson's predecessors with the Pirates since Fred Clarke stepped down years ago is sufficient illustration, if you care to go that far.

But that isn't necessary. Consider the major league managers of the moment. They are nearly all one or two-year men, and their jobs are just about as sure as a politician's promise.

Bill Killifer, of the Cubs; Fred Mitchell, of the Braves; Irving Wilhelm, of the Phillies; Lee Fohl, of the Browns, and Ty Cobb, of the Tigers, fell heir to the jobs last year. Of the lot only Fohl and Cobb are reasonably certain of hanging on, and then only on condition that they continue to deliver.

Of the 1920 managerial crop there are Tris Speaker, of the Indians; Hugh Duffy, of the Red Sox, and Branch Rickey, of the Cardinals. Duffy may or may not stick, depending upon Mr. Frazee's pleasure.

From the year before remain Pat Moran, of the Reds, and Kid Gleason, of the White Sox, who fought out that peculiar 1919 world's series. Rumors of Moran's passing have been watted about, but Gleason seems to be sitting pretty—for the time being at least.

That narrows the field down to Miller Huggins, who came to the Yanks somewhere back about 1917; Wilbert Robinson, leader of the Dodgers since 1915, and John McGraw, of the Giants, and Connie Mack, of the Athletics. Clyde Milan, of the Senators, and Bill McKechnie, of the Pirates, are not mentioned because they have yet to receive a white man's chance.

Of the others, however, it is understood that Huggins must bring the Yanks home this year or take himself hence, despite the fact that he won in 1921, while Robbie, McGraw and Mack are fixtures.

The spare manager of the Athletics is part owner of the club, else he would hardly be with us now. No mere manager could finish last for seven years and hover about that spot in the midst of his eighth season and still remain among those present. At that, he won enough pennants between 1901 and 1914 to merit more than ordinary consideration.

Connie and McGraw, the winners of many pennants, stand out as the only twenty-year managers in all baseball, and they owe their longevity as much to circumstance as to results attained. Both are stockholders, and McGraw, in addition, is given carte blanche in the matter of buying talent. Were it not for that it is extremely doubtful whether John would have been able to bag seven pennants in some twenty-two starts.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

To the uninitiated, there appears to be no sport in the world, either indoor or outdoor, to which attaches such minute directions as to "just how to do it" as in golf. Now comes the fellow who has discovered that a player is inclined to pull or slice his ball in accordance asto whether he is exhaling or inhailing his breath at the time the club was making the downward stroke.

No game has had such minute directions and instructions given regarding it. Volumes have been written just as to how the thumb should be held on every different club in the calendar. Chapters have been devoted to the location of the little finger. Columns have been given over to the proper stance and yards of matter printed telling exactly how far the club should go back over the shoulder before the stroke and just how far it should follow through after the impact with the ball.

A couple of golfers recently were discussing whether or not all this mass of literature anent the game had proven of any worth as far as they were concerned. The concensus of opinion was that out of the mass of stuff that was written by various experts at the game, there was undoubtedly advice to be picked out here and there which would be an aid. As far as the bulk of it was concerned, it was thought that most of it was mere padding or space filler on the part of men who had been hired to write on the subject and, perforce, must fill up and deliver the required quota of written words.

There is little doubt that there is much that is confusfng for the reason that scarcely no two men will say exactly the same thing in regard to a stroke or a stance.

There are as many styles as there are individuals who play the game. The main thing is to read the stuff turned out by the man whose style more nearly corresponds with your own. There are certain fundamentals in the game which must be observed in order to get the best results, but after that every man or woman must shift for himself or herself and develop a personal style best suited to their physical proportions.

There is little doubt that many novices have been retarded in their play by endeavoring to assimilate and practice all the points concerning the game of which they have read. It is confusing and, in many instances, simply to have gone to a good instructor who could size you up and tell you what was best in your particular case, would have been far better than studying books and articles on the subject. A lot of it is a sheer waste of time, for one may be reading directions which, while they might have been adapted for the writer, were in no wise suitable to the reader. It also is well to keep in mind that when a well known golfer is asked to turn out a series of say, twenty articles, he is likely to resort to a lot of flub-dubb in order to make good on the order.

American Women Help War on Cancer

PARIS—American women are helping in France's war on cancer.

Members of the "Committee of Visiting Ladies of the Franco-Anglo-American League Against Cancer" have organized a social prophylaxis service to follow up cases treated in the newly formed cancer research department of the hospital service of the department of the Seine. This department was instituted to carry out work along lines laid down by the discoveries of Pierre and Madam Curie. In addition to this departmental clinic two municipal anti-cancer institutions have been established.

Cancer, with tuberculosis and venereal diseases, is designated by serious French writers as a greater scourge than war.

COURT TO DECIDE TETON COUNTY'S GOVERNMENT

Civil Authorities Ensnared in Jackson Hole Country of Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 14.—Whether or not Teton county, bordering the Yellowstone National Park, in the extreme western end of the state, is legally organized is a question that the supreme court of Wyoming must settle as the result of a suit filed in district court, in Kemmerer, Wyo. The outcome will determine whether Wyoming loses one of her counties, as an adverse decision by the state's high court would revert the contested territory to Lincoln county, out of which Teton was formed two years ago.

The suit involves a number of constitutional questions.

The state constitution provided that no new county shall be organized unless it has at least 1500 bona fide inhabitants and $2,000,000 assessed valuation.

Law Raises Requirements

The 1919 legislature passed a law raising the requirements to 3000 population and $5,000,000 valuation, thus presenting the legal right of the state legislature to increase the minima prescribed by the constitution.

If the legislature had that right, it is contended by the plaintiffs, the new county cannot be organized, as it is admitted in the suit that the Teton territory contains only a few over 1500 population and slightly over $2,000,000 valuation.

Numerous other constitutional questions, the majority closely related to the one above mentioned, are involved in the suit, and it is expected the case will be given early hearing in the supreme court.

In "Jackson Hole"

The act creating the unorganized county of Teton, was passed by the last legislature, the territory involved being the famous Jackson Hole country, former rendezvous of bandits and "bad men" of the "wild and woolly west."

If the supreme court sustains the contentions of the plaintiffs the section will remain a part of Lincoln county; otherwise it will be organized into the new county of Teton and begin independent existence.

It is a sharp satire on the role the ex-kaiser played in politics at Petrograd, London and Berlin while he was in power.

PASTORS DIVIDED IN OPINIONS IF SUICIDE IS EVER JUSTIFIED

Stella Marshall.

Death of Missouri Girl Is Defended by Some Clergymen in Middle West.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 14. — Is suicide ever justified?

Can the moral law, "Thou shalt not kill!" be interpreted, under any condition, to the soul salvation of a self-destructionist?

Clergymen of the middle west are divided over these questions, as are friends of pretty Stella Marshall, popular town belle and teacher in the little Baptist Sunday school here, who lies in her grave, the victim of her own hand.

Her story is without precedent in the ecclesiastical law of life and death.

Miss Marshall's Sunday school class was giving an entertainment. The young teacher went into her garden to cut a corsage bouquet of roses for the fluffy organdie dress she wore. She carried a razor edged butcher knife.

Papers, gathered from the street during a windstorm, cluttered the yard. Miss Marshall gathered these into a bundle and touched a lighted match to them. Then she turned to the cutting of her roses.

A moment later and her dress was afire.

A scream—then a moment of frantic effort to beat out the flames which had enveloped the girl's body.

Then dropping to her knees, the burning girl prayed:

"Dear God!" J. E. Nash, a next-door neighbor heard her cry, "forgive me! Forgive me!"

The flames had reached Miss Marshall's hair—her body was a torch.

Nash vaulted a fence in his effort to reach the girl's side. But before he could do so Miss Marshall placed the blade of the butcher knife she carried to her throat. A moment later she fell—the vein of life had been cut.

Frantically Nash beat out the flames, which by now had burned deep into the flesh of the girl.

But the knife had made a fatal wound—Miss Marshall died before medical aid could be administered.

Physicians who later examined the body expressed the belief that Miss Marshall's burns would not have proved fatal. She would have been disfigured for life, however.

Miss Marshall's father, E. O. Marshall, a merchant here, justifies his daughter's act upon a childhood experience of his daughter.

"Stella, when a very small girl, was painfully burned," the father says. "Since then I have heard her say many times that she preferred death to the agony she suffered at that time. I believe this fear, grown to a mania, led my daughter to commit an act over which she had no control."

Clergymen of the middle west allied with the liberalist school of theology declare the state of Miss Marshall's mind at the moment she took her life would serve as her justification in the tribunal of the moral law.

"If Miss Marshall, at the moment she killed herself, believed that death would result from the flames which were consuming her body she had the moral right to relieve the death pains which her childhood experience had built into a monster which drove all else from her mind at the moment," Rev. James E. Peoples, local clergyman, says.

Opposed to this is the teaching of other of the city's leading ministers, who are emphatic in their declaration that the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill!" was binding on Miss Marshall.

"God gives human life," they argue. "Only God can take it."

Unless the act of self destruction is that of insanity, some of the clergymen insist, the soul is lost.

They are joined by the "old-fashioned" ministers of the Missouri hills, teachers of the "old school."

As a result of the bitter debate over Miss Marshall's act the subject of her moral justification may be brought before the national conventions of many of the leading church organizations this year and rulings asked.

Customers Wink, So She Gets Suspicious

ST. LOUIS—Kate E. Eftemin is a law abiding person.

Today she is an irritated one. Someone, she charges, tried to palm off a "blind tiger" on her in the guise of a refined ice cream parlor.

Mrs. Eftemin purchased an "ice cream parlor" in a thickly populated part of town. With the hot weather in mind she prepared for a rushing business in ice cream cones and soda water. To her surprise customer after customer, she avers, with a sly wink demanded something not contemplated under the Volstead law.

Stating all these facts and many more, Mrs. Eftemin declares she came to the conclusion that someone had sold her a "bootleg parlor." So she brought suit against George Gerber, who, she says, sold her the place, demanding $240, the sale price, and $1000 "damages."

Girl Does 8 Years of School in One

NEW YORK.—The amazing case of Rosie Reeve, 11 years old, who recently arrived in New York from Chicago with the reputation of having done eight years of grammar and high school work, or its equivalent, in twelve months, is engaging the attention of high school educators.

Some of these say frankly that so far as they are able to see it "can't be done."

To this, Thomas Reeve, father of Rosie, and her sole instructor in the eventful year, replies simply that it was done and says that Rosie was in the fourth grade of a Chicago school when he took her away to try his own system and that a year later she was able to pass entrance examinations to the freshman class at Western university, London, Ontario.

This prodigious result, Mr. Reeve says, was brought about by the use of a system for analyzing the science of human speech in such a way as to bring about economy of communication and apprehension.

Rosie, pretty, healthy and modestly self-possessed, isn't able to throw a great deal of light on her strange leap toward knowledge.

"It was father," she says simply. "He made me whatever I am and I want praise for him, not me. I suppose I can do things other girls of my age cannot do, but it is only because of him."

The girl speaks unusually good English and knows something of French and Spanish also. She says she got "fair" grades at Western university last year. She wants to be a lawyer and may enter Columbia university to study law next year if arrangements can be perfected.

"I want to be a laywer so I can speak at the bar," says Rosie. "I should also like to be a singer and have six children. I have lots of friends among girls of my own age and we have good times swimming and playing tennis together."

AMAZING FIGURE LIBERAL THINKER

Don Luigi Sturzo, Leading Character In Clerical Party, Works Hard

Don Luigi Sturzo.

By CLARA WOLD
For International News Service.

ROME, July 14.—An amazing figure in Italian politics is Don Luigi Sturzo, priest, Popolare deputy and directing leader of his party.

I was prepared to meet a man radiating energy—a man who would brusquely receive me, make a brief statement of party principles and dismiss me, for I had heard from everyone that Don Sturzo is the busiest political leader in Italy. He is, in fact, the man who reorganized the old Clerical party—a party that for generations had been looked upon by good Romans as an enemy to Italian people because of the ancient fight between the papal power and the struggle for a united Italian nation. From a somewhat insignificant group of old-time leaders the party was rescued under the leadership of Don Sturzo, a priest who had won literary fame in Italy and who had been able under most trying times to deal with the demands of industrial workers in whatever part of Italy he was working.

Don Sturzo is recognized as a liberal thinker. It was because of his readiness to grasp new situations that he was able to rejuvenate and revolutionize the Clerical party, so that it now is the second in control in parliament, the Socialists having a few more deputies."

"He Is a Fighter"

"He carries all the party programes in his head; all the orders come from him; the Catholic syndicates are under his control; he is never idle. And, finally, he is a Sicilian and a fighter," one Italian told me.

Turning these remarks over in my mind, I entered the spacious offict of Don Sturzo. A short man, slightly bent in his shoulders and dressed in priest's robes, met me half way across the room, coming upon me so swiftly and quietly that I felt he had already read my entire personality with his piercing, deep-set eyes before I had more than realized he was there. The deep lines about his mouth and nose deepened still more as he greeted me with a spreading smile.

He sat down behind his long desk, which seemed to take on tremendous proportions before him, and announced at once that he would not consent to an interview, but would be glad to take any questions I might have ready to present to him and give me a written statement at his leisure.

Conclusively and solemnly, as his long, pointed fingers busied themselves with his papers, he explained, "I never give interviews." A man of decision, I told myself, noticing the straight line his mouth made when he was not smiling.

Sturzo Is Busy Man

But for all that he laughed heartily when I assured him quite as solemnly that this was very bad for the correspondents, and when I began questioning him he entered upon a long explanation of the program of the Populare party, the while he answered the telephone, signed letters and gave occasional orders to at attendant, who popped in and out of old Roman doors regardless of interviews. Plainly the business of the party was not to be interfered with.

"The Popolare party has a general program that includes first of all the development of agrarian production," Don Sturzo told me. "because Italy is pre-eminently an agricultural country.

"With neither coal nor iron, Italy has always been handicapped in industrial production and certainly cannot compete with other countries under the new methods of production. At the same time then that we develop the agrarian production we wish to reduce the artificial industries, such as the production of heavy metals. In this way we shall be able to form a substantial trade that will create conditions desirable for foreign capital.

To Build Up Shipping

"And, thirdly, we wish to build up our shipping, especially for trade in the Mediterranean and Black seas.

"Italy has found herself in a bad way economically for several reasons. She is exporting less than she used to; there are fewer tourists than there used to be, and those who come spend less money; and finally her emigration has been stopped for the time being."

"But how," I asked him, "do you expect to build up your production in the face of the fight that organized labor is making?"

"We have our own syndicates of labor," he replied, "which are particularly strong in the country."

"But not as strong as the Socialist syndicates," I said.

To this he only answered that he believes "the syndicates have a valuable mission in solving the economic conditions of any country. They bring about the balance between the laws of capitalism and the needs of the workman. They provide the progress to industry."

And he added, "I do not fear the 'red' syndicates, because we have our own organizations of workers."

"And what about the Fascisti syndicates? You must surely reckon with them if your party does anything that the Fascisti do not agree with?"

Flays Fascisti

"For the moment," said Don Sturzo, "the Fascisti cannot be said to have a character of economic spirit. They have rather the character of youthful spirit. They are the defenders of capitalism, and at the same time they declare that they wish to organize the proletariat. One cannot defend capitalism and the proletariat at the same time."

The land program of the Popolare party plans to increase agricultural production; to transform methods of production, and to take over the land from large holders.

The first two plans will be accomplished, so everyone agrees, through electrification of the country, which is without fuel, but has tremendous water-power. At the same time this electrical development will transform industrial production. I have been told by an expert American investigator that Italy is no longer able to compete with the superior methods of production and distribution of the California fruit growers.

Change In Land Laws

The redivision of land now in the hands of large owners, particularly in southern Italy, has long been the dream of southern political leaders. And Don Sturzo is a Sicilian. A bill is before the Italian parliament now that provides for many changes in the present land laws, including the gradual taking over of land from large holders. This land will be redistributed among colonies of workers or to co-operative organizations or to banks, for which payment will be made half in capital and half in bonds. The bill also provides for changes in the terms of agreement between owners and tenants, so that long terms of contract will be signed, thereby encouraging developments that require years to accomplish.

Don Sturzo declared that this program does not in any way intend to turn the property over to the peasants as Soviet Russia did. "We will develop the land and permit groups of workers to manage it at the same time, so that no one will be given land and no tools."

"And what about the question of suffrage for women in Italy?" I asked him.

Our program includes suffrage for women."

"Yes, but you have sufficient votes, together with the Socialists, whose program also includes suffrage, to carry a measure. Then why do you not introduce it?"

Would Let Women Vote

"Very soon, now that we have finished the conference at Genoa and settled down to work again, we shall introduce a new bill."

Don Sturzo smiled. "It will be passed before this legislature falls," he answered.

"But that might not be for years," I answered—a rather optimistic remark to make about an Italian legislature.

The mere matter of three or four more years seemed altobether unimportant to Don Sturzo so far as woman suffrage is concerned. He replied, as every politician in America and in England used to reply.

"This is not the time," he said, "to disturb our national affairs. We must wait a little, because when Italy gives the vote to women it will mean the fall of the present parliament and the calling of a new election, so that the new voters will be represented."

"You did not hesitate to bring on the fall of the government when universal suffrage was granted to your men," I reminded him.

Don Sturzo again smiled to himself. He dismissed me with a cordial handshake and, still smiling, said:

"Yes, they will surely have the vote during this session of the legislature—some time."

Ancient Fossil Is Discovered in China

NEW YORK.—President Henry Fairfield Osborn, of the American Museum of Natural History, has just received the following important cable from the leader of the museum's third Asiatic expedition now in the Desert of Gobi in Mongolia:

"Expedition immediately discovers important cretaceous and tertiary beds with fragmentary fossils of mammals and dinosaurs."

This expedition was sent out by the American Museum of Natural History for the purpose of collecting the animals of China, past and present. Little or nothing has been known of the geological history of Mongolia, but in the opinion of experts the discoveries indicated in the message will be of great scientific interest.

The expedition left Peking April 17 for Urga, whence they planned to explore the country to the west and south. This country, although commonly called a desert, is really a region of rolling plains and foot hills.

The plan of the expedition is to carry on a reconnaissance of the zoology, geology, paleontology and geography of country traversed, preparatory to a more detailed study in the future if it proves to be of scientific interest.

The leaders of the party are well known in scientific circles in New York. Roy Chapman Andrews, of the American Museum, is in charge of the expedition; Walter Grainger is in charge of paleontology; Professor Charles P. Berkey, of Columbia, is geologist to the expedition. Professor Frederick Morris, formerly of Columbia and now of Pei-yang university at Tientsin, is geologist and topographer; Bayard Colgate, motor transportation officer; Mr. Larsen, field manager; J. Persender, assistant transporation officer, and J. B. Shackleford, cinematographer.

Four thousand almond growers, members of the California Almond Growers' Exchange, have received a total of approximately $6,000,000 for their 1919, 1920 and 1921 almond crops.

SO. DAKOTA NOW HAS STONE IN MONUMENT

Only Four States Remain to Be Represented In the Washington Pile

By U. S. Press Association

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—South Dakota's stone in the Washington Monument was recently dedicated by proper ceremonies. The stone is of native South Dakota granite, four feet long by two feet wide by six inches thick, bearing upon its face the state seal and the date of admittance to the Union, February 22, 1869. "Under God the People Rule" is the state motto, also appearing on the stone.

The stone is set flush with the inner wall at a height of 300 feet from the ground. But four stones remain to be placed in the monument to complete the quota of the 48 states—North Dakota, Arizona, Idaho and New Mexico.

Bars Mongolians

Under a bill designed to tighten up the immigration law, introduced by Chairman Johnson of the house immigration committee, admission for permanent residence in this country would be granted only to aliens eligible for citizenship, thus, it was pointed out, shutting the gates to Japanese, Chinese, Mongolians and others not granted the right of citizenship who desire such residence.

The Johnson bill also would reduce on July 1, 1923, the quota percentage from each country from 3 to 2 per cent, based on 1910 census figures. In addition to the 2 per cent quota, each country, however, would be given a flat allowance of 600, the maximum total from this 600 flow being estimated at 24,000.

The percentage reduction, according to Johnson's estimates, would cut the total quota admissions from around 255,000 to 170,000. Not more than 10 per cent of any country's quota would be admitted into the United States in one month.

No attempt will be made to have the house vote on the Johnson proposal at this session.

Public Lands Restored

Secretary of the Interior Fall announces that more than 500,000 acres of land were classified under the stock raising homestead law and were designated for entry in tracts of 640 acres or less. Much of the acreage classified, however, is included in original entries or in applications which confer a preference right. The areas classified are in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming.

About 100,000 acres in' New Mexico previously withdrawn for coal classification purposes and small areas in Arizona, Montana, New Mexico and Wyoming previously included in public water reserve have been restored to entry. About 25,000 acres of land in Colorado, Idaho and Oregon formerly withdrawn as power site lands were restored to entry, and more than 4000 acres in California, Idaho and Washington were classified as power site lands.

Increase Coal Production

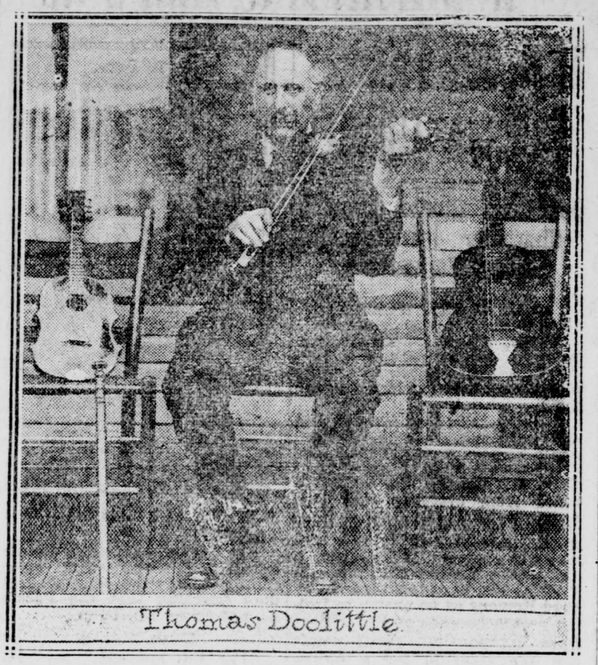
The geological survey notes that there is increased production in coal fields, which it says comes not from any of the strongly organized fields, but results from a gradual return to work in non-union fields affected by the strike, and from increased activity in districts of the far west, where demand has hitherto been insufficient to call out full production. The accumulation of unbilled loads is still declining and the draft upon consumers' stock piles continues.

Munich Train Station Is Largest in World

BERLIN.—Munich Central station, with its thirty-two rails, is now the biggest railway station in the world. Next to it comes St. Louis, U. S. A., with thirty-one rails, Paris Gare du Nord with twenty-eight rails, and Leipsic with twenty-six rails.

The total cost of the Munich station amounted to only 30,000,000 marks, against 135,000,000 marks for the Leipsic station.

MAKES INSTRUMENTS WITH KNIFE, ALTHOUGH HE IS TOTALLY BLIND



Thomas Doolittle

Loses His Sight When Youth, He Holds His Interest in Life Through Music

FAIRMONT, W. V., July 14.—Although blind for more than thirty-eight years, Thomas Doolittle has made in that time more than two hundred musical instruments ranging from violins to a creation of his own which he has named the "violin-mandolin."

Doolittle lost his sight when but nineteen years of age through a scrofulous affection. Despondent as a consequence of the loss of his sight, he tried to forget his misfortune through absorption in his violin, an instrument which he already played well.

In course of time Thomas became an expert violinist, and in order to capitalize his ability he decided to tour the rural districts giving one and two-night concerts in country schoolhouses and churches.

This idea proved very popular in the rural communities, where good music was not heard often. Doolittle continued these concerts for many years. In this time he played in nearly every county in the state of West Virginia, following a regular circuit. In giving these concerts he acquired a reputation as a musician that has withstood the years.

Prior to the loss of his sight Doolittle had been a carpenter, and he still kept trying to "make things" with soft wood and a penknife. He found this interesting, and it was not long until he attempted work that required other tools.

As Doolittle became more and more interested in this work he again saw possibilities ahead and decided to try really difficult work. One of the first sincere efforts he made to accomplish something worth while was put into the making of a hope-chest. The result was highly satisfactory, and there came soon afterward a dresser, piano bench, chiffonier and library table. All these were well done, but his interest was not in that class of work, and he accordingly turned to the manufacture of musical instruments.

His first attempt in this line was a violin; not such a good one, but it would play. The second was better, as was each succeeding one. In all Doolittle has made one hundred and one violins, fifty-eight guitars, thirty-eight mandolins, one ukulele, seven bass viols, five dulcimers and three violin-mandolins.

The ninety-seventh and last violins are still in his possession, the former being considered one of the best he has ever made. This violin is one of exceptional tone, and it has been said by experts that the volume is far beyond the range of all ordinary violins. All his later instruments are noted for the sweet, mellow tones which their maker brought out.

Doolittle has not made any instruments for several months and declares that he may never make another one. He is more content now to remain at home with his two sisters, with whom he lives, and potter around in his little shop on odd jobs brought him by friends and neighbors. A great deal of his time is also taken up by repair work. Musical instruments from all over the state are sent to him for repair and he makes them as good as new.

Loss of sight has only served to increase the kindliness of this man and, if possible, make him more appreciative of the more beautiful things in life. He has a kindly, humorous spirit that endears him at once to new friends and old.

Never married, Doolittle gives his affection to his beloved instruments and to the sweet little old ladies, his sisters, who care for his wants.

There is no hardness in Thomas's life—only pleasantness and cheer. Possibly this is because he, in his many years before the public, sent his music deep into so many hearts and left it there, a softening, mellowing influence, and the echo is now repeating itself in his own life, softer, sweeter, grander than befor—

Court Tangles Retard Trials of Profiteers

WASHINGTON.—Hordes of war grafters will get away—immune from the law's clutches—because of the slow and tangled processes of the courts.

Federal court procedure, in the face of the crush of litigation now confronted through war frauds mainly, is found to be wholly inadequate. Court rules mostly were made to fit the business of the courts 50 years ago.

Thousands of cases which have been investigated and revealed sufficient proof to convict those who were caught "red handed" in robbing the government during and since the war now must hang fire indefinitely.

Just as congress voted $500,000 to further enable the attorney general to hire additional legal talent, and to expedite prosecution of the grafters, word comes from the attorney general that the department of justice is far ahead of the courts, and that the department simply will have to mark time to wait for the courts to catch up with the business now lagging in their hands.

The answer to such a situation is that defendants or material witnesses will disappear in numerous cases, or important evidence will lose its effectiveness because of the long delays which now are expected to defeat the government's program in some of its more important aspects.

The attorney general has begun to expand his war graft division to probe war contracts. He expects to expedite this work as much as possible. The evidenre gathered, however, although valuable in securing indictmnts, means little in the ultimate conviction of the defendants so long as federal judges are not available to try them.

Illustrating the jam of the courts is the inability of the attorney general to have the cement anti-trust cases brought to trial in New York before the last of the year. The cases involving the cement group in tht Middle West also will be delayed indefintiely, probably until the beginning of another year.

The court jam also will seriously retard judicial sifting of the charges in the scores of anti-trust cases which are pending. Aggravating the condition of the dockets is the fact also that the federal judges are just beginning their summer vacation terms. The courts merely will lag along handling only emergency litigation, or cases which have stood on the dockets for two years or more.

Chief Justice Taft and other distinguished jurists have taken the lead in a movement to reform the rules of the judiciary.

California Growing by Leaps and Bounds, Association Reveals In Report

A survey of real estate conditions made by the news department of the California Real Estate Association reveals an increasing state-wide activity in real estate sales and building improvements. Turnovers in real estate, development of new farming country, building of more homes, and erection of fine new business blocks are reported from many counties in the state. A steady influx of tourists, both by automobile and by train, is keeping the stream of new population flowing into California at a substantial level. There is an ever-growing increased demand for California real estate, according to the state association. Probably starting within a year, work on the Boulder creek dam on the Colorado river continues to stimulate a desire among many eastern people to come to California and build their homes anew in the fertile valleys watered by the Colorado river.

Among some of the items of building and sale that indicate the growing movement in real property in California may be mentioned the following:

Here Is Summary

Los Angeles building permits maintaining their steady high level, setting a high water mark each month.

Banner building permits and real estate deals reported from San Francisco and Oakland centers.

Renewed activities in some of the interior cities, such as Sacramento, Riverside, Fresno, Stockton, Santa Ana and Pasadena.

Some of the activities throughout the state include the following:

Real building boom on at Pomona, in the heart of the orange district.

Ground broken at San Francisco for $2,500,000 commercial hotel and theatre.

Mission Inn at Riverside to be enlarged and improved at a cost of $500,000.

Vallejo reports $2,800,000 budget voted for new construction at the navy yard.

Y. M. C. A. building at Santa Ana to cost $233,000.

Shipyard at Los Angeles starts work on contracts for two electric-driven ferryboats.

San Francisco reports a new $850,000 building at Post and Powell streets to start July first.

The city of Berkeley reports 50 per cent increase in its bank clearings over last year.

The California Farm Bureau Federation onnounced $3,000,000 farm loan to finance marketing of the grain crop.

Half million dollars is being spent at Richmond for new homes.

A $250,000 high school establishment is being built at San Rafael.

A new $300,000 draw bridge across the San Joaquin river will be built in Lodi.

Redding has voted $110,000 for a new school.

Records Are Broken

Among the larger real estate transactions reported during the week was the sale of the Consolidated Realty building at Sixth and Hill streets in Los Angeles, sold to a San Francisco syndicate for $2,000,000, the largest cash transaction for improved real estate in the recent history of Los Angeles.

It might be said that the building activity throughout the United States and particularly in California are surpassing all former records. It is believed the State of California is not building beyond its future demands. To all purposes there will be a steady measurable increase annually in California's population and all the new housing and business property that is being erected will be occupied or spoken for. Crop conditions throughout the state continue to be quite favorable.

The population of the State of California was 3,426,861 when the national census was taken more than two years ago. The state now has between 3,750,000 and 4,000,000 inhabitants, the realtors' news bureau declared, basing its figures on its reports from cities and counties.

Business Is Good In Glendale----

A number of years ago the coming of July and August meant a "slow-up" in business in California.

Of late years, however, California has become so well known as a summer resort and building activities have been so great that during the summer months business continues the "same as usual."

This year is no exception. Glendale is rapidly expanding and prosperous, and this store's business is the greatest in its history.

From the start it was the determination of the Glendale Hardware Co. to build up a business on straight, reliable methods which would assure future growth on a solid foundation and with every confidence of our customers.

Our buying power enables us to buy as cheaply as any city firm, and low overhead makes it possible to sell as cheap, if not cheaper.

Our policies assure good merchandise, right treatment to customers and efficient service.

Trousers for Women Popular in Chicago

CHICAGO.—It's knickers for walking, breeches for riding, trousers for motoring and overalls for housework.

Trousers for women are coming into their own in Chicago.

The demand is echoed in more feminine hearts than one would imagine. The big stores and the small shops have felt it and are filling it.

When the first girl appeared in riding breeches on the bridle path there was consternation among the males, but the fad for all kinds of trousers has grown so no one could stop it if they wanted to.

And the women have an argument in defense: How can anyone walk in a tight skirt? It's impossible, they say.

Miss Anita Munroe described the advantage of trousers for motoring.

"When you motor," she said, "you can't be hopping in and out of a car comfortably with a lot of awkward skirts on. I love this motoring costume. I wear a cape with it and when I get out of the car to shop I button the cape and no one can tell I have no skirt on."

Miss Eleanor Livingston told why she wears overalls to do housework:

"They are the most comfortable things I ever had on," she said. "One can do so many things when you wear them. You can make the beds and sweep and fuss around a car. Did you ever notice that when men fix their cars on Sunday they always put on overalls? And when you are looking for comfort follow the lead of the modern man."

Such are the views of the modern woman.

ACCUSES CORPORATION

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Urging congress to enact new legislation to destroy an alleged Standard Oil monopoly in the gasoline trade, the federal trade commission today charged the corporation with "perpetuating the very monopolistic control which the United States supreme court sought to terminate."

Congress was specifically asked to pass a law prohibiting common stock ownership in corporations which were members of a combination dissolved under the Sherman law.

"The margins between the wholesale and retail gas prices at numerous points in Montana ranges from 5 to 10 cents per gallon, but these unusually large margins were in all cases obtained only by the smaller retailers," the commission said.

Safety matches are sold in remote regions around the Red Sea which have never been visited by a white man.

SOUTH'S TROOPS TO LEAVE SATURDAY FOR MONTEREY

Glendale and Burbank to Have Guards on Train Leaving Saturday

The Glendale and Burbank companies of the California National Guard are to meet at the Southern Pacific stations in their respective cities at 7 o'clock Saturday night to entrain for the annual federal infantry encampment at Monterey.

All companies of the One Hundred Sixtieth Regiment except these are to assemble at the state armory, Exposition park, Los Angeles, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Two trains of two sections each, it is understood, are to take the guards to camp, and the Glendale and Burbank companies will be picked up by the second of these trains.

These organizations are Company I of Burbank, Headquarters Company of the Third Batallion and Machine Gun Company M of Glendale. The Headquarters Company is under the command of First Lieutenant Harold L. Alexander, who is batallion adjutant. A second lieutenant will probably be assigned to this company while in camp. The officers of Company M are First Lieutenant Paul M. Vissman and Second Lieutenant Kenneth D. Wilde.

Ready for Emergency

The second train, which will carry these companies, will be under the command of Captain G. H. Higley of Los Angeles. One-half of a medical detachment will accompany each section as a precaution in case of emergency. Lunches will be served to the men by the mess officers, while on the train. The guards will arrive at Monterey on Sunday.

The camp is primarily for instruction, says Lieutenant Alexander. The functions of each man and each department of the military service involved will be gone over with the men, to give them a comprehensive idea of the workings of military organizations. Certain men will also be issued special weapons and will be trained in their use, and practically every man will have some work on the rifle range.

To Receive Pay

In addition to the Federal pay, which will be the same as pay according to rank in the regular army, the guardsmen will receive $1 a day from the state for each day they are in camp or en route, according to Lieutenant Alexander.

A list of articles which should be taken to camp in addition to the regular pack equipment has been made public by the Lieutenant. The list includes: One extra suit of underwear, two pairs of socks, two towels, soap, comb and brush, tooth brush and shaving materials. Two extra pairs of socks will be issued to each man after his arrival at camp.

Honor and Health Desire In Husbands

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Optimism, steadfastness, loyalty, a sense of honor, health, character, thoughtfulness—these are the attributes of the perfect husband, if you care to accept the verdicts rendered by the co-ed graduates of Syracuse university.

Miss Frances Slocum, valedictorian of the class, rules that the requisites of the perfect husband are ambition, brains, ideals and a sense of humor.

A man who eats bread pudding with the grace of a connoisseur in French pastry and to whom tomorrow means something besides "another day, another dollar" is the ideal man for Miss Nerine Mason.

A purpose in life, with an appreciation of the fundamentals of life rather than the artificial, is the demand made by Miss Emily Gere, who adds:

"The ideal husband must abhor divorce and be of the one-woman kind. He must not have too stubborn a disposition, so he can be led into believing he is having his own way when he really isn't. He must be somewhat like the caveman in taking the initiative, and now and then he must dictate what his wife should do."

An optimist is wanted by Miss Beatrice Strait, retiring women's managing editor for the Syracuse Daily Orange, the undergraduate daily. Miss Strait declares that educational training should have more weight in selecting a husband than money or position, but one's husband, of course, should be able to support his wife comfortably. The hypothesis of the whole thing is that he must be true in love.

"Good health, strong character, sense of honor, a good companion, with an intellect at least equal to that of his wife" is the right combination for a husband, avers Miss Elsie Beygrau, retiring women's editor of the Orange.

"A man who will remember that his wife likes a good time as well after marriage as before" would fill the bill, admits Miss Dorothy Manwarren, who adds that he should be thoughtful and appreciative in noticing things at home.

Miss Isabel Collins declares for a man who has plenty of pep, is free from jealousy, trustworthy in every respect and admiring only to a certain degree.

"A man who will be interested in the home and his wife, but not to the extent of never wishing to go out" wins the ballot of Miss Elizabeth Blanchard, women's editor of the Onondagan.

The loss of population in France, due to the war, has been estimated at 4,000,000.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Mocking Birds Too Noisy
What About Weddings?
Glendale Girls Get Married
Thanks for the Park!

By Gil A. Cowan

HAVE you heard the mocking bird? Undoubtedly you have, for there is a bird to every block it would seem. And, oh, what a racket they make in the wee small hours of night.

Whoever passed a law to protect mocking birds must have held stock in an insane asylum for those chatter boxes would make a sick person sicker than sick.

Glendale should be glad, however, that the birds have a liking for this community for they are harbingers of peace, it is said. And the tropical moon, etc., would be out of place without them.

Mocking birds, as we knew them in the middle west, are not the same as those here, they being the brown thrush of the hayfields that had the ability to imitate others of the feathered family.

Here the mocker is all that the name implies and it makes you think of all of the ghost stories, starving Armenians, swamps, battlefields and what not. A rooster isn't in it when it comes to racket.

So let us devise ways and means for having whip-poor-wills, canaries or humming birds replace the noisy annoyers in the nearby trees.

Early the other morning a young man and his bride started down the street with his nibs carrying two heavily laden travelling bags. They were starting the day with marriage and assuming life's burdens shortly after dawn.

It was a splendid sight to see this couple carried away on the matrimonial sea and the same day to hear of six other weddings in the same circle in which they were known.

From Illinois comes the complaint that the young people are not marrying—a church wedding, or even a home wedding being almost unknown in some communities.

One editor rises to remark that he has gotten rusty on reporting the blushing bride and blooming bridegroom. Then he goes on to attribute the situation to any one of a half dozen reasons, each sufficient in itself.

One of these is that women have become independent and do not think of marriage as they did prior to the suffrage amendment.

Another sets forth the fact that they now choose the men instead of men choosing them and they take none when "the only one" passes them by.

As for the men, he holds that low wages in the middle western towns makes it impossible to support a wife and family, especially when the wives of today are inclined to do but little work.

Wonder how it is with Glendale girls who get married? Do they expect to have homes, rear families, and otherwise serve their "lord and master" in wifely ways?

Well, they are doing it, God bless 'em, and all of this in the face of a shortage of desirable helpmeets. It must be the western spirit, for certainly employment may be obtained here more easily than in the east.

And seldom do you hear of a western man marrying a maid in the east to bring her west. She must make the pilgrimage first and become acclimated, for here different standards prevail.

California girls are not prudish. Neither are men here falsely chivalrous. Both are too busy with life as it is to think of the many refinements, as they are called, which are observed in the east.

Illinois, Indiana and Iowa girls who actually want a happy home should come west and absorb enough of the atmosphere to meet their man here half way—and there is a mighty big chance that he has come from the same community or some similar city or town or countryside, but revolted in mind, body and soul at the circumstances which surrounded his very existence there.

Posterity will have at least one thing for which to thank the present city administration. That is the purchase of 104 acres in the Verdugo foothills for a public park. Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, who parted with the property at a magnanimous figure, also is to be thanked.

The sylvan dells, natural springs, play space for ball grounds, swimming pool, auto camp, etc., make it ideal for the purpose and it was nothing short of a miracle that Glendale obtained this land close to Verdugo road and the Glendale & Montrose car line.

There is no need to dwell on the possibilities for this ideal park—and it is that—but every boy and girl in Glendale should take papa and mamma to the tract very soon and share with them the joy of the community property.

NEW BREAD LOAF TO CONTAIN FOOD FOR FAMILY

Vitamine to Revolutionize Household Cooking, Is Claim of Chemist

By JACK CARBERRY
For International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Picture the "great American home" at the supper hour. The table set in the fashion so dear to the American heart—father at the head. Mother, with baby in the high chair beside her, and along the festive board little Jimmy and Johnny and Susie and Sal.

And for the whole family one loaf of bread and a bottle of milk.

It isn't a picture of poverty!

Rather it is the banquet of the future. The picture is drawn by no less an authority than A. B. Hess, graduate chemist of Johns Hopkins university, a professor for fifteen years and now educational director for one of the world's greatest milling engineering concerns.

"For the day is not far distant—it is within the span of even the oldest of us—when a loaf of bread will contain all the food values necessary to the most exacting stomach," Professor Hess told the American Association of Cereal Chemists in annual convention here.

Bread To Be Perfect Food

"Within this age bread will become the perfect food—complete in itself. It is only a matter of a few short years—months perhaps—when the American housewife can discard every side dish—can put away her pots and pans, even discarding her oven, and still be able to please the exacting palate of her husband—and all with a loaf of bread."

Professor Hess's prediction followed the announcement of a discovery by Dr. E. V. McCollum, also of Johns Hopkins University, made public for the first time here this week.

Dr. McCollum, guest and principal speaker at the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, announced the discovery of a new vitamine—a fourth on the list of these mysterious new food properties.

"We have discovered a new vitamine," Dr. McCollum told the convention delegates. "Its discovery has been saved from the public until this occasion. It brings to the world a new message of hope from bodily diseases."

Classifies Vitamines

Dr. McCollum classified vitamines "A," "B," and "C" and called the new unknown food force "D."

The new vitamine is concerned in the eitiology of bone growth and is the food substance which prevents rickets in children.

The four vitamines, as listed by Dr. McCollum, are:

A—Prevents night blindness and sore eyes among children.

B—Lack of this vitamine lowers the vitality and makes the body subject to infection.

C—Prevents scurvy.

D—Protects bone growth and prevents rickets.

"Herctofore we have known of three vitamines, substances which it is impossible to isolate by chemical means; but which we know are essential to growth," Dr. McCollum explained.

"We know now for a certainty of another one, and I believe we are only on the first road to finding more of these mysterious substances."

Vitamines Discovered

Vitamines were first discovered in food when notice was taken of the unusual results animal growers were obtaining by feeding certain rations.

"Every farmer knew young livestock would grow better on yellow corn than white," the doctor-chemist said. "Chemists did not know why. Investigation has revealed that the yellow color in corn is a vitamine—it is 'Vitamine B.'

"All four vitamines are found in milk and the leafy parts of plants," Dr. McCollum announced. "Their absence from the diet of growing children results in undernutrition, bad teeth and rickets.

Dr. McCollum emphasized the importance of foods containing vitamines in the diet of expectant mothers and also in the diet of the growing child.

"The properties of vitamines were made known after laborious tests," he said. "However, what it is, or what a vitamine looks like is unknown. It does not respond to chemical tests."

Where Vitamines Are Found

Vitamines are found in these foods, Dr. McCollum announced:

"Fat, soluble A, in milk, cheese, yolks of eggs.

"Water, soluble B, milk, husks, or grains, leaves of plants and spinach.

"Anti-scurvy C, milk, citrus fruits and potato skins, and in combination with foods having the other two.

"Cabbage is the highest food in vitamines; in the raw state it has two counts for A, one for B and three for C. Cooking lowers the first two.

"Carrots have one count each for the three classes. Tomatoes have all three vitamines, and the curative qualities are not lost in cooking. Lettuce has two counts for A, two for B, but none for C.

"The day is coming—and coming soon—when the modern miller will combine the four vitamines in one loaf of bread," Professor Hess said following Dr. McCullum's startling announcement of the discovery. "Then the American diet can be revived."

DE VALERA DEAD RUMOR IN DUBLIN

Leader Drops From Sight But Report of Death Is Not Credited

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
For International News Service.

DUBLIN, July 14.—The recently elected Irish parliament today was prorogued for fourteen days in order to enable members who are fighting in the Irish free state army to continue with the colors.

Eamonn de Valera again has dropped out of sight and it was rumored that he was dead, but this rumor is not credited by any of the free state officers.

The Irish provisional government issued an official statement saying that many members of parliament are engaged in preserving order and that it is for the best interests of the country to continue this patriotic course.

Regulars claim that the situation in the south is satisfactory. However, the irregulars claim to have won a number of successes north of Cork which gives them control of part of the counties of Kerry, Wexford, Cork and Mayo.

A dispatch from Belfast quoted P. J. Little, the Belfast "press agent" of the republicans, as saying the people of Cork have accepted the republic which was proclaimed there by the rebels on Tuesday.

Sniping was reported from Limerick.

The irregulars claim the capture of two free state generals in County Limerick, Hayes and Connell. Wire communication has been cut, causing consternation here, as it is not known what is taking place there. Up to noon not even a traveler has arrived from Cork to bring news of the events in that part of Ireland.

Galway has been captured from irregulars by free state troops. Before the rebels retired they set a number of buildings on fire.

Rail Guards and Strikers In Fight

INDIANAPOLIS, July 14.—Police were called to the roundhouse of the Big Four railroad early today following reports of shooting, believed to have been between railroad guards and striking railway shopmen.

James Star, a guard, was shot in the calf of the leg. He told police two men fired at him from beneath a box car. He returned the fire and the men ran. Police found no trace of them.

Mrs. Grant Stewart Entertains Informally

Mrs. Grant Stewart of 549 Oak street entertained informally yesterday afternoon in celebration of the twelfth anniversary of her marriage and to compliment her neighbor, Mrs. Harry Vaughan, a recent arrival from Seattle, Wash.

Those enjoying Mrs. Stewart's hospitality were Mesdames Walter Hartley, O. H. May, George Gunther and F. Le Com.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart are planning to entertain a group of their friends at a theater party Saturday night to celebrate their wedding anniversary.

JEALOUS WOMAN SLAYS ANOTHER WITH HAMMER

Confesses to Husband, He Tells Police, She Is Now Held for Inquiry

(Cntinued)

ing her deadly weapon, threw off the mask and asked Mrs. Meadows what she meant by being intimate with her husband. The victim-to-be denied the charge. A fight followed in which Mrs. Meadows was struck down and then her head, arms and wrists beaten with the hammer.

"Killed Your Loved One"

Crazed at the sight of her dead victim, Phillips told the police, Mrs. Phillips picked up the head of the hammer, the handle of which had broken off, and taking Mrs. Meadows' machine, drove madly back to Los Angeles.

Upon reaching home, she explained her blood-spattered clothing to her mother and sister by saying that she had been in an accident. But, her husband says, she called him aside and told him the truth, saying:

"I have slain the one you loved best. I can't live without you. You'll never see her again."

Car Is Abandoned

Then followed hours of excitement in which Phillips and his wife sought to solve how the crime might be covered up, so Phillips' story goes. The Ford coupe—that was the first thing to be disposed of. Mrs. Phillips driving it, and her husband following in his machine, went to Pomona and there abandoned it in an old Greek amphitheatre.

Returning to Los Angeles Mrs. Phillips passed the night in a downtown hotel while her husband walked the streets. By morning he had arrived at the conclusion that his wife had better leave the city, so he borrowed $50 from a friend and sent her to El Paso, Texas, on an early morning train, Phillips said.

After his wife's departure, Phillips decided to consult a lawyer, who, after listening to the story, advised the truth to be told the authorities. So to Sheriff Traeger Phillips and his lawyer went, and bared the truth.

LEFT HIM HAUGHTILY

There were two men named Brown in a certain village. One lost his wife and the other a boat at the same time.

The vicar's wife called, as she supposed, on the bereaved Mr. Brown.

"I am sorry to hear of your great loss," she said, sympathetically.

"Oh, it ain't much matter," was the reply. "She wasn't up to much."

"Indeed," said the surprised woman.

"Yes," continued Brown, "she was a rickety old thing. I offered her to my brother, but he wouldn't have her. I've had my eye on another for some time."

With that the outraged woman fled.

Oil Promoters Bring Civilization to West

RIVERTON, Wyo.—The "Pilot Butte country," made famous through the exploits of "Bill" Carlisle, noted train bandit, who escaping from the Rewlins state penitentiary in the fall of 1919, terrorized passengers on transcontinental trains as they passed through this section of the country, is at last to be touched by advancing civilization.

Oil promoters are completing preparations for the drilling of test wells in the Pilot Butte oil structure, and successful operations will bring commercial interests that will invade this picturesque frontier country.

JOHNSON CLUB IS NOW ORGANIZED FOR GLENDALE

John Hyde Braly Chosen President; Laud Senator for Accomplishments

Electing officers and naming chairmen of various committees were the principal acts taken last night by the members of the newly-organized Johnson-for-Senator club of Glendale, which met in the high school auditorium. An enthusiastic group of local followers of the fighting Californian took part in the session, which included numerous spirited speeches regarding the deeds that have been accomplished by Senator Hiram Johnson during his term of office at Washington.

The meeting was called to order by John Hyde Braly, who has been a friend of Senator Johnson for many years. After making a few brief remarks, in which he stated that the purpose of the organization is to "send Hiram Johnson back to the United States senate," Mr. Braly introduced J. H. Franklin to the assembly.

Mr. Franklin, who is well known in local political circles and is one of Senator Johnson's staunchest supporters since the latter's inception into the political spotlight, drew numerous enthusiastic outbursts of applause from his listeners throughout his address. He stated in part:

Success After Success

"I have known Senator Johnson since the beginning of his political career and have watched him win one success after another. In the east if a man makes good in public office he is retained and his power is increased accordingly. We should copy this in the west. Senator Johnson has established a prestige for himself in the United States senate that has seldom been won by any man in the country's history.

"Hiram Johnson can do more for California than any other man in the state, and if we want the best man sent to Washington to look after our interests it will be Hiram Johnson."

Following Mr. Franklin's speech the following officers were elected permanently to head the local organization: John Hyde Braly, president; J. H. Franklin, vice-president; C. D. Lusby, treasurer; Miss Eva Daniels, secretary; A. T. Cowan, chairman of publicity committee; C. F. Parker, chairman campaign committee; Mrs. John Hyde Braly, chairman of women's membership committee.

Prominent in East

J. H. Franklin, who was formerly Justice of the Peace of Burbank township, responded to a request from the chair with a few remarks on the reputation that has been established by Senator Johnson throughout the east. Mr. Franklin began his talk by stating that "this is the first time that I have ever stood up for Hiram Johnson, but when a man goes out in 'foreign' territory to speak among the 'enemy' (as Johnson did on his stumping tour which resulted in the restoration of the Republican party to the administration of the country's affairs) you've got to take off your hat to him. I have lived in foreign countries as well as in the United States, and by the stand taken by men of such caliber as Johnson, I have been convinced that this country is able to stand flat-footed without the aid of any outside nation."

B. B. Smith of Pasadena, receiver of the federal land office in Los Angeles, made a short talk, telling of the methods of procedure that are being taken by the Crown City "Johnson" organization. In addition, he cited several instances of the stand that has been taken by Senator Johnson regarding the Boulder Dam and protective tariff questions. In closing, Mr. Smith stated that the reports from the Republican organizations all over the state show that practically all of the people who left Johnson on the League of Nations controversy are now rallying to his support.

The remainder of the meeting included impromptu talks by A. T. Cowan, C. A. Rudel, C. D. Lusby, Mrs. J. H. Braly and several others. Prior to adjournment, the chair announced that it has practically been assured that Senator Johnson will make an address in Glendale before the primaries on August 29.

ROTARY CLUB HAS DISCUSSION ON SCHOOL PLANS

Annexation of Eagle Rock to Glendale Is Possible, Speakers Indicate filled by the time they are completed and there will be an urgent need of more bonds soon.

"At present the two systems mentioned are not the same in boundaries. The Glendale Union High School districts includes not only Glendale city, but also Eagle Rock city, Crescenta, Tujunga and Monte Vista (Sunland) districts.

"The high school district has to provide the high school facilities for all these districts. The present plant is entirely inadequate for doing this and last December the first steps were taken to secure suitable accommodations for the school. Eighty-five thousand dollars in bonds were voted for a new site which would be large enough to accommodate the group of buildings necessary for the future. In May six hundred thousand dollars in bonds were voted for the construction of the first buildings on this site.

Has Business Side

"The school problem has a business side as well as an educational one. The trend in business now is toward concentration to give greater efficiency and economy. This is equally applicable to school. When a high school was first planned to care for two thousand students, later thought has shown the necessity of forming a general building plan for the new site to accommodate a much larger number. The architect has shown the way in which this change in general policy affects the present building plan, for certain buildings, like the auditorium, when built, must be built to their final capacity. He has shown the trustees that the six hundred thousand dollars already voted will not build this larger auditorium and class rooms to care for the number of students who will be waiting for admission when the plant is completed. The trustees at their recent meeting decided to present the matter to the people of the district and ask their consideration of the following:

For Consideration

"First—Shall the auditorium be omitted at the present time and the amount already voted be used for construction of general class room building?

"Second—Shall additional bonds be voted and the building plan be made complete at the present time?

"Third—Shall the present site be sold and the funds derived from the sale be used to complete the plant?

"The question of sale of the present site has brought up the question of a junior high school and the closer union of the elementary schools of the district high school. The junior high school is the new thought in laying out the school program. It brings the seventh, eighth and ninth years into a junior high school, and the tenth, eleventh and twelfth years into a senior high. The junior high has many things in its favor. Its introduction is hindered by lack of legal provisions at the present time. To introduce the junior high at the present time, it will be necessary to form one district by having all the present high school district included in the Glendale city system, or by the formation of a Union Junior High school."

W. E. Hewitt of the Glendale laundry has invited the members of the Rotary club to dine at his establishment next Thursday. Tex Rogers, a guest, sang two solos an dthe club members rendered several numbers.

Business Men of Nation Pledge to Uphold Law

WASHINGTON, July 14.—President Harding has received the assurance of the business men of the United States that they would cooperate with him in maintaining law and order during the railroad strike.

Officers of the United States chamber of commerce called at the White House to present the president with a copy of a resolution adopted by the executive council of the chamber, calling upon all business men to support the administration in its efforts to prevent interruption of interstate commerce.

The resolution urged the president to use all the power of the agencies of the government to maintain supremacy of law and order.

Saturday Afternoon Game Called Off

Finding no team of sufficient caliber which would play, Manager John A. Cobb of the Glendale Merchants' baseball team has been forced to call off the Thornycroft buddies' benefit game which had been announced for Saturday afternoon.

It had been Cobb's intention to inaugurate, beginning tomorrow afternoon, a series of Saturday games, but this will have to be deferred for a week. The buddies' benefit game will be staged sometime later in the season, he says.

Negotiations are now under way for a game with the Hermosa Beach team for Sunday, but nothing definite has yet been decided. "Ty" doesn't want to leave the home grounds, and the beachites want the Merchants to journey to their town. It is possible that some other team will be booked for Sunday afternoon.

RAILROAD STRIKE TO BE EXTENDED NEXT MONDAY

Stationary Firemen and Oilers Receive Orders to Suspend Work

By JOHN L. SPIVAK
For International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 14.—All railroad stationary firemen and oilers throughout the United States were today telegraphed orders to suspend work at 8 o'clock on Monday, July 17, by Timothy Healy, president of the Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and Oilers.

Coupled with this order came an exclusive statement to the International News Service in which Healy lauded the "wonderful fight" that the shopmen are putting up on "behalf of the entire labor movement," and evincing a hearty gladness at the strike vote which gave him the opportunity to join forces with Jewell.

Far Reaching Effect

This strike order, which calls out the heart of the railroad tower houses, is expected to have a far reaching effect upon the ultimate result of the strike.

The original strike order, which was held in abeyance by Healy until July 3, at the request of Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the United States railway labor board and issued today, reads as follows:

"In compliance with your strike vote, which is 87 per cent in favor of a walkout, sanction is hereby granted to each and every member of our brotherhood on all railroads, steam plants, roundhouse and terminals throughout the United States to suspend work at 8 a. m. on Monday, July 17, 1922."

Issues Statement

CHICAGO, July 14.—B. M. Jewell, president of the striking railway shopmen, has issued the following statement with reference to the letter of Samuel M. Felton, railway executives' spokesman:

"The letter attributed to the four railway executives addressed to Mr. Hooper of the United States railway labor board must be amusing to those who understand the situation. Again we see the feeble attempt of the big institutions of our country to wrap about themselves the stars and stripes and to attempt to lead some one to believe they are not responsible for the situation.

"They are trying to create the belief that the law-abiding, God-fearing American citizens who are now standing for justice and against oppression of the financial managements and directors of railroads, are fighting the government. The American public knows that the railway shop crafts are not fighting the government."
